THE THOUGHT OF GOD

ONE thought I have, my ample creed,
So deep it is and broad,
And equal to my every need, —
It is the thought of God.

Each morn unfolds some fresh surprise,
I feast at Life's full board ;
And rising in my inner skies
Shines forth the thought of God.

At night my gladness is my prayer ;
I drop my daily load,
And every care is pillowed there
Upon the thought of God.

I ask not far before to see,
But take in trust my road ;
Life, death, and immortality
Are in my thought of God.

To this their secret strength they owed
The martyr's path who trod ;
The fountains of their patience flowed
From out their thought of God.

Be still the light upon my way,
My pilgrim staff and rod,
My rest by night, my strength by day,
O blessed thought of God !

LISTENING FOR GOD

I HEAR it often in the dark,
I hear it in the light, —
Where is the voice that calls to me
With such a quiet might ?
It seems but echo to my thought,
And yet beyond the stars ;
It seems a heart-beat in a hush,
And yet the planet jars !

Oh, may it be that far within
My inmost soul there lies
A spirit-sky, that opens with Those voices of surprise ?
And can it be, by night and day,
That firmament serene
Is just the heaven, where God himself,
The Father, dwells unseen ?

O God within, so close to me
That every thought is plain,
Be Judge, be Friend, be Father still,
And in thy heaven reign !
Thy heaven is mine, — my very soul !
Thy words are sweet and strong ;
They fill my inward silences
With music and with song.

They send me challenges to right,
And loud rebuke my ill ;
They ring my bells of victory,
They breathe my ' Peace, be still !
They ever seem to say, — ' My child,
Why seek me so all day ?
Now journey inward to thyself.
And listen by the way !'

MILWAUKEE, 1870

THE MYSTERY OF GOD

O THOU, in all thy might so far,
In all thy love so near,
Beyond the range of sun and star,
And yet beside us here,—

What heart can comprehend thy name,
Or, searching, find thee out,
Who art within, a quickening Flame,
A Presence round about?

Yet though I know thee but in part,
I ask not, Lord, for more :
Enough for me to know thou art,
To love thee and adore.

O sweeter now than aught besides,
The tender mystery
That like a veil of shadow hides
The Light I may not see!

And dearer than all things I know
Is childlike faith to me,
That makes the darkest way I go
An open path to thee.

1876

CONSIDER THE LILIES, HOW THEY GROW

HE hides within the lily
    A strong and tender care,
That wins the earth-born atoms
    To glory of the air ;
He weaves the shining garments
    Unceasingly and still,
Along the quiet waters,
    In niches of the hill.

We linger at the vigil
    With him who bent the knee
To watch the old-time lilies
    In distant Galilee ;
And still the worship deepens
    And quickens into new,
As brightening down the ages
    God's secret thrilleth through.

O Toiler of the lily,
Thy touch is in the Man!
No leaf that dawns to petal
But hints the angel-plan.
The flower-horizons open!
The blossom vaster shows!
We hear thy wide worlds echo, —
See how the lily grows!

Shy yearnings of the savage,
Unfolding thought by thought,
To holy lives are lifted,
To visions fair are wrought;
The races rise and cluster,
And evils fade and fall,
Till chaos blooms to beauty,
Thy purpose crowning all!

THE SECRET PLACE OF THE MOST HIGH

THE Lord is in his Holy Place
In all things near and far!
Shekinah of the snowflake, he,
And Glory of the star,
And Secret of the April land
That stirs the field to flowers,
Whose little tabernacles rise
To hold him through the hours.

He hides himself within the love
Of those whom we love best ;
The smiles and tones that make our homes
Are shrines by him possessed ;
He tents within the lonely heart
And shepherds every thought ;
We find him not by seeking long, —
We lose him not, unsought.

Our art may build its Holy Place,
Our feet on Sinai stand,
But Holiest of Holies knows
No tread, no touch of hand ;
The listening soul makes Sinai still Wherever we may be,
And in the vow, 'Thy will be done !'
Lies all Gethsemane.

For C. W. W., CHICAGO, 1873

THE INDWELLING GOD

'O that I knew where I might find him !'

Go not, my soul, in search of him,
Thou wilt not find him there, —
Or in the depths of shadow dim,
Or heights of upper air.

For not in far-off realms of space
The Spirit hath its throne ;
In every heart it findeth place
And waiteth to be known.

Thought answereth alone to thought,
And Soul with soul hath kin ;
The outward God he findeth not
Who finds not God within.

And if the vision come to thee
Revealed by inward sign,
Earth will be full of Deity
And with his glory shine!

Thou shalt not want for company
Nor pitch thy tent alone ;
The indwelling God will go with thee
And show thee of his own.

O gift of gifts, O grace of grace,
That God should condescend
To make thy heart his dwelling-place
And be thy daily Friend !

Then go not thou in search of him,
But to thyself repair ;
Wait thou within the silence dim
And thou shalt find him there !

THE HIGHWAY

• Whatever road I take joins the highway that leads to thee. •

WHEN the night is still and far,
    Watcher from the shadowed deeps !
When the morning breaks its bar,
    Life that shines and wakes and leaps !
When old Bible-verses glow,
    Starring all the deep of thought,
Till it fills with quiet dawn
    From the peace our years have brought, —
    Sun within both skies, we see
    How all lights lead back to thee !

'Cross the field of daily work
    Run the footpaths, leading — where ?
Run they east or run they west,
    One way all the workers fare.

Every awful thing of earth, —
Sin and pain and battle-noise ;
Every dear thing, — baby's birth,
Faces, flowers, or lovers' joys, —
Is a wicket-gate, where we
Join the great highway to thee!

Restless, restless, speed we on, —
Whither in the vast unknown ?
Not to you and not to me
Are the sealèd orders shown :
But the Hand that built the road,
And the Light that leads the feet,
And this inward restlessness,
Are such invitation sweet,
That where I no longer see,
Highway still must lead to thee!

A PSALM OF TRUST

I LITTLE see, I little know,
Yet can I fear no ill:
He who hath guided me till now
Will be my leader still.

No burden yet was on me laid
Of trouble or of care,
But he my trembling step hath stayed,
And given me strength to bear.

I came not hither of my will
Or wisdom of mine own:
That higher Power upholds me still,
And still must bear me on.

I knew not of this wondrous earth,
Nor dreamed what blessings lay
Beyond the gates of human birth
To glad my future way.

And what beyond this life may be
As little I divine, —
What love may wait to welcome me,
What fellowships be mine.

I know not what beyond may lie,
But look, in humble faith,
Into a larger life to die
And find new birth in death.

He will not leave my soul forlorn ;
I still must find him true,
Whose mercies have been new each morn
And every evening new.

Upon his providence I lean,
As lean in faith I must:
The lesson of my life hath been
A heart of grateful trust.

And so my onward way I fare
With happy heart and calm,
And mingle with my daily care
The music of my psalm.

GLORIES THAT REMAIN

'If that which is done away was glorious, much more that which remaineth is glorious.'

FAIRER grows the earth each morning
To the eyes that watch aright ;
Every dew-drop sparkles warning
Of a miracle in sight ;
Of some unsuspected glory
Waiting in the old and plain ;
Poet's dream nor traveller's story
Words such wonders as remain.

Everywhere the gate of Beauty
Fresh across the pathway swings,
As we follow truth or duty
Inward to the heart of things ;
And we enter, foolish mortals,
Thinking now the heart to find, —
There to gaze on vaster portals !
Still the Glory lies behind !

Faith I love ! I love you deeper
As I press your portals through,
Heeding not the call of keeper,
Heeding sole the vision new !
All our creeds are hinting only
Of a faith of nobler strain :
God is living ! are we lonely.
'Mid his glories that remain ?

F. R. A. Festival, 1874

THE LARGER FAITH

WE pray no more, made lowly wise,
For miracle and sign ;
Anoint our eyes to see within
The common the divine.

'Lo here, lo there,' no more we cry,
Dividing with our call
The mantle of thy presence, Lord,
That seamless covers all.

We turn from seeking thee afar
And in unwonted ways,
To build from out our daily lives
The temples of thy praise.

And if thy casual comings, Lord,
To hearts of old were dear,
What joy shall dwell within the faith
That feels thee ever near !

And nobler yet shall duty grow,
And more shall worship be,
When thou art found in all our life,
And all our life in thee.

THE STREAM OF FAITH

FROM heart to heart, from creed to creed,
The hidden river runs ;
It quickens all the ages down,
It binds the sires to sons, —
The stream of Faith, whose source is God,
Whose sound, the sound of prayer,
Whose meadows are the holy lives
Upspringing everywhere.

How deep it flowed in olden time,
When men by it were strong
To dare the untrod wilderness,
Charmed on by river-song!
Where'er they passed by hill or shore,
They gave the song a voice,
Till all the craggy land had heard
The Father's Faith rejoice.

And still it moves, a broadening flood ;
And fresher, fuller grows
A sense as if the sea were near,
Towards which the river flows !
O thou, who art the secret Source
That rises in each soul,
Thou art the Ocean too, — thy charm,
That ever-deepening roll !

For J. M., NEWBURYPORT, 1875

FOUND

They that know thy name will put their trust in thee

O NAME, all other names above,
What art thou not to me,
Now I have learned to trust thy love
And cast my care on thee !

What is our being but a cry,
A restless longing still,
Which thou alone canst satisfy,
Alone thy fulness fill !

Thrice blessed be the holy souls
That lead the way to thee,
That burn upon the martyr-rolls
And lists of prophecy.

And sweet it is to tread the ground
O'er which their faith hath trod ;
But sweeter far, when thou art found,
The soul's own sense of God !

The thought of thee all sorrow calms ;
Our anxious burdens fall ;
His crosses turn to triumph-palms
Who finds in God his all.

1878

THEODORE

O HEART of all the shining day,
The green earth's still Delight,
Thou Freshness in the morning wind,
Thou Silence of the night,
Thou Beauty of our temple-walls,
Thou Strength within the stone, —
What is it we can offer thee
That is not first thine own ?

Old memories throng : we think of those
Awhile with us who trod,
Whose hands yet lift within our lives, —
We called them ' Gift of God : '
And thine these shinings in our thought,
This eager, love-wrought hope,
This deathless faith they wait and watch
On some fair upper slope.

O, solemn-sweet the sureness grows,
When such as they have passed ;
The darkness fills, the silence thrills,
Their life pervades the Vast ;
The vanished virtue quickens through
And touches every star ;
Their unseen love — we know it thine,
Thy Living Love they are !

Parker Memorial Dedication, 1873

MY DEAD

I CANNOT think of them as dead
Who walk with me no more ;
Along the path of life I tread
They have but gone before.

The Father's house is mansioned fair
Beyond my vision dim ;
All souls are his, and here or there
Are living unto him.

And still their silent ministry
Within my heart hath place,
As when on earth they walked with me
And met me face to face.

Their lives are made forever mine;
What they to me have been
Hath left henceforth its seal and sign
Engraven deep within.

Mine are they by an ownership
Nor time nor death can free ;
For God hath given to Love to keep
Its own eternally.

GREEN PASTURES AND STILL WATERS

CLEAR in memory's silent reaches
Lie the pastures I have seen,
Greener than the sun-lit spaces
Where the May has flung her green:
Needs no sun and needs no starlight
To illumine these fields of mine,
For the glory of dead faces
Is the sun, the stars, that shine.

More than one I count my pastures
As my life-path groweth long ;
By their quiet waters straying
Oft I lay me, and am strong.
And I call each by its giver,
And the dear names bring to them
Glory as from shining faces
In some New Jerusalem.

Yet, O well I can remember,
Once I called my pastures, Pain,
And their waters were a torrent
Sweeping through my life amain!
Now I call them Peace and Stillness,
Brightness of all Happy Thought,
Where I linger for a blessing
From my faces that are nought.

Nought? I fear not. If the Power
Maketh thus his pastures green,
Maketh thus his quiet waters,
Out of waste his heavens serene,
I can trust the mighty Shepherd
Loseth none he ever led;
Somewhere yet a greeting waits me
On the faces of my dead!

FATHER, TO THEE

FATHER, to thee we look in all our sorrow,
Thou art the fountain whence our healing flows ;
Dark though the night, joy cometh with the morrow ;
Safely they rest who on thy love repose.

When fond hopes fail and skies are dark before us,
When the vain cares that vex our life increase, —
Comes with its calm the thought that thou art o'er us,
And we grow quiet, folded in thy peace.

Nought shall affright us on thy goodness leaning,
Low in the heart faith singeth still her song ;

Chastened by pain we learn life's deeper meaning,
    And in our weakness thou dost make us strong.

Patient, O heart, though heavy be thy sorrows !
    Be not cast down, disquieted in vain ;
Yet shalt thou praise him when these darkened furrows,
    Where now he plougheth, wave with golden grain.

THROUGH UNKNOWN PATHS

O THOU who art of all that is Beginning both and end,
We follow thee through unknown paths,
Since all to thee must tend:
Thy judgments are a mighty deep
Beyond all fathom-line ;
Our wisdom is the childlike heart,
Our strength, to trust in thine.

We bless thee for the skies above,
And for the earth beneath,
For hopes that blossom here below
And wither not with death ;
But most we bless thee for thyself,
O heavenly Light within,
Whose dayspring in our hearts dispels
The darkness of our sin.

Be thou in joy our deeper joy,
Our comfort when distressed ;
Be thou by day our strength for toil,
And thou by night our rest.
And when these earthly dwellings fail
And Time's last hour is come,
Be thou, O God, our dwelling-place
And our eternal home !

HE THAT INHABITETH ETERNITY

WHO does not feel how weak
Are all our words to speak
Of him, the Infinite, —
Below all depth, above all height !
Yet hath no other speech
To me such wondrous reach
As this the prophet saith: that he Inhabiteth Eternity !

We dwell in Time : our ear
Is deafened by things near ;
Darkly we see, and know
Only in part, also.
From troubles that annoy
Plucking no future joy,
Sweetening failure's bitterness
With no deferred but sure success, —
As if the passing hour were all,
With it we rise and fall :
The while that he
Inhabiteth Eternity !

Patient and suffering long
With man's mistakes and wrong ;
Seeing how all threads come
In place in Time's vast loom,
And in the finished web fulfil
The pattern of his perfect will ;
To whom as one is seen
What is, will be, hath been, —
Tranquil and lifted clear
Above our fevered atmosphere,
Forever dwelleth he
In the sure strength of his Eternity !

O Father of my life,
Give me, amid its strife,
To bear within my breast
The secret of thy rest, —
The river of thy peace within,
Whose banks are always fresh and green ;
Give me, while here in Time I be,
Also to dwell with thee in thine Eternity.

ON THE MOUNT

Not always on the mount may we
Rapt in the heavenly vision be;
The shores of thought and feeling know
The Spirit's tidal ebb and flow.

Lord, it is good abiding here —
We cry, the heavenly presence near :
The vision vanishes, our eyes
Are lifted into vacant skies !

Yet hath one such exalted hour
Upon the soul redeeming power,
And in its strength through after days
We travel our appointed ways ;

Till all the lowly vale grows bright
Transfigured in remembered light,
And in untiring souls we bear
The freshness of the upper air.

The mount for vision, — but below
The paths of daily duty go,
And nobler life therein shall own
The pattern on the mountain shown.

LOYALTY

WHEN courage fails, and faith burns low,
And men are timid grown,
Hold fast thy loyalty, and know
That Truth still moveth on.

For unseen messengers she hath
To work her will and ways,
And even human scorn and wrath
God turneth to her praise.

She can both meek and lordly be,
In heavenly might secure ;
With her is pledge of victory,
And patience to endure.

The race is not unto the swift,
The battle to the strong,
When dawn her judgment-days that sift
The claims of right and wrong.

And more than thou canst do for Truth
Can she on thee confer,
If thou, O heart, but give thy youth
And manhood unto her.

For she can make thee inly bright,
Thy self-love purge away,
And lead thee in the path whose light
Shines to the perfect day.

Who follow her, though men deride,
In her strength shall be strong ;
Shall see their shame become their pride,
And share her triumph-song !

PASSING UNDERSTANDING

The peace of God, that passeth all understanding.'

MANY things in life there are Past our 'understanding' far,
And the humblest flower that grows
Hides a secret no man knows.

All unread by outer sense
Lies the soul's experience ;
Mysteries around us rise,
We, the deeper mysteries !

Who hath scales to weigh the love
That from heart to heart doth move,
The divine unrest within,
Or the keen remorse for sin ?

Who can map those tracks of light
Where the fancy wings its flight,
Or to outer vision trace
Thought's mysterious dwelling-place ?

Who can sound the silent sea
Where, with sealèd orders, we Voyage from birth's forgotten shore
Toward the unknown land before ?

While we may so little scan
Of thy vast creation's plan,
Teach us, O our God, to be
Humble in our walk with thee !

May we trust, through ill and good,
Thine unchanging Fatherhood,
And our highest wisdom find
In the reverent heart and mind !

Clearer vision shall be ours,
Larger wisdom, ampler powers,
And the meaning yet appear
Of what passes knowledge here.

THE SUNNY SIDE

A SILVERY tide, called 'Sunny Side,'
Goes creeping around the earth,
And never a place but wins a grace
In the jubilant flood of mirth,
From the dancing gleam on the fretted stream
To the dimple on baby's cheek,
That in and out, to his merry shout,
Twinkles a hide-and-seek.

Wherever it goes, the darkness glows
And men and women sing ;
It fills their eyes with a glad surprise,
And stays their sorrowing ;
The heart is a-tune, the world is June,
Nothing is old or gray,
As it passes along with the swell of a song,
Like a musical break of day.

Spirit of Love, in the blue above
Who makest the sun to flame,
Who guidest the flight of the planet bright,
And callest the stars by name,
It is thou dost hide in the 'Sunny Side,'
And creepest from heart to heart!
And, soul or clod, we share the God,
Who comes, — and the shadows part!

FLOWER SUNDAY

THE rose is queen among the flowers,
None other is so fair :
The lily nodding on her stem
With fragrance fills the air.
But sweeter than the lily's breath
And than the rose more fair,
The tender love of human hearts
That springeth everywhere.

The rose will fade and fall away,
The lily too will die :
But love shall live forevermore
Beyond the starry sky.
Then sweeter than the lily's breath
And than the rose more fair,
The tender love of human hearts
Upspringing everywhere.

THE LITTLE ONES

Children's Sunday

ALL hidden lie the future ways
Their little feet shall fare ;
But holy thoughts within us stir
And rise on lips of prayer.

To us beneath the noonday heat,
Dust-stained and travel-worn,
How beautiful their robes of white,
The freshness of their morn !

Within us wakes the childlike heart,
Back rolls the tide of years ;
The silent wells of memory start
And flow in happy tears.

O little ones, ye cannot know
The power with which ye plead,
Nor why, as on through life we go,
The little child doth lead.

CHRISTMAS

STILL the angels sing on high,
Still the bearded men draw nigh,
Bringing worship with the morn,
When a little child is born ;
Baby-glory in the place,
Star-look on the mother's face,
Psalm within the mother's heart, —
Christmas all in counterpart !

Quaintest wight that ever stirred,
With thy ears that never heard,
Eyes that eye a brand-new world,
Tiny limbs but half uncurled,
Wee-bit Adam ! wee-bit Christ !
Earth, by thee new-paradised,
Blooms to miracles again,
Echoes God's ' Good-will to men !'

Blessings on the little child
In the cave far-off and wild !
For that nursery divine
Tells me well, O baby mine,
That thou art Emmanuel,
'God with us,' come here to dwell, —
Come to say, 'Since time began,
Son of God is Son of Man.'

THE CHILDREN'S SERVICE

From the German of Karl Gerok

THE church-bells for service are ringing,
The father and mother have gone ;
And three little golden-haired children
Are left in the doorway alone.

For these are too young for the meeting —
The busy and frolicsome elves —
So they think to praise God like their elders
With a holy-time all by themselves !

Each one a big volume has taken
And holds it top-down 'gainst the breast ;
Forthwith the devout little mimics
Sing out in their loudest and best !

They know not themselves what they 're singing,
And each takes a tune of his own : —
Sing on, O ye children, your voices
Are heard at the heavenly throne !

And there stand your angels in glory,
While songs to the Father they raise,
Who out of the mouths of the children
Hath perfected worship and praise.

Sing on ; over there in the garden
There singeth an answering choir ;
'T is the brood of light-hearted birdlings
That chirp in the bloom-laden brier.

Sing on ; there is trust in your music, —
The Father, he asks not for more ;
Quick flieth the heart that is sinless
Like a dove to the heavenly door.

Sing on ; we sing who are older,
Yet little we too understand :
And our Bibles, how often we hold them
The bottom-side up in our hand !

Sing on ; in the songs of our service
We follow each note of the card ;
But alas, in our strife with each other
How oft is the melody marred !

Sing on ; for earth's loftiest music
Though ever so fine and so clear,
What is it ? The lispings of children,
A breath in the Infinite ear !

JESUS WHO?

'The other day I told my very little daughter, answering a question of hers, that a certain picture was Jesus. "Jesus WHO?" said she — "Jesus God?"'

AND are the children prophets, then,
Or have they lived before,
To speak the words so simple-wise,
And babble spirit-lore ?

Their wonder plays on questions quaint,
All vision and surprise,
Like clumsy gates whose careless swing
Reveals half Paradise.

---

Yes, little May, you've said it, —
'God' is his other name ;
Ours always ends with Father's ;
Yours is the very same.

Our earth is one home only,
Our Father only one,
And all the folks are brothers,
And every one his son.

And up and down the city
Wherever you have trod,
It's Mary-, Maud-, and Katy-,
John-God, and Willie-God.

---

O Life and Love, in whom we are,
From whom, to whom all lives,
I thank thee for the christening
Thy little prophet gives.

The simple Bible long ago
Hinted the secret well,
When child-faith named its hero-babes,
'Judah' and 'Israel.'<sup>1</sup>

Why strangely sounds the name divine
Blending with ours to-day ?
Is God an ancient lost afar,
A fashion gone for aye ?

Ah, no, but thought too awful grows
For name or speech or look :
In silent floods the secret pours
That babbled in the brook.

CHRISTMAS

TO-DAY be joy in every heart,
For lo, the angel throng
Once more above the listening earth
Repeats the advent song :

'Peace on the earth, good-will to men !'
Before us goes the star
That leads us on to holier births
And life diviner far !

Ye men of strife, forget to-day
Your harshness and your hate ;
Too long ye stay the promised years
For which the nations wait !

And ye upon the tented field,
Sheathe, sheathe to-day the sword !
By love, and not by might, shall come
The kingdom of the Lord.

O star of human faith and hope !
Thy light shall lead us on,
Until it fades in morning's glow,
And heaven on earth is won.

JESUS

IMMORTAL by their deed and word,
Like light around them shed,
Still speak the prophets of the Lord,
Still live the sainted dead.

The voice of old by Jordan's flood
Yet floats upon the air ;
We hear it in beatitude,
In parable and prayer.

And still the beauty of that life
Shines star-like on our way,
And breathes its calm amid the strife
And burden of to-day.

Earnest of life forevermore,
That life of duty here, —
The trust that in the darkest hour
Looked forth and knew no fear !

Spirit of Jesus, still speed on !
Speed on thy conquering way,
Till every heart the Father own,
And all his will obey !

THE YEAR OF THE LORD

PRAISE to God and thanksgiving!
Hearts, bow down, and voices, sing!
Praises to the Glorious One,
All his year of wonder done!

Praise him for his budding green,
April's resurrection-scene :
Praise him for his shining hours,
Starring all the land with flowers :

Praise him for his summer rain,
Feeding, day and night, the grain :
Praise him for his tiny seed,
Holding all his world shall need !

Praise him for his garden root,
Meadow grass and orchard fruit :
Praise for hills and valleys broad, —
Each the Table of the Lord !

Praise him now for snowy rest,
Falling soft on Nature's breast :
Praise for happy dreams of birth
Brooding in the quiet earth !

For his year of wonder done,
Praise to the All-Glorious One !
Hearts, bow down, and voices, sing
Praise and love and thanksgiving !

Harvest Festival, ST. PAUL, 1882

THE NEW YEAR

'BEHOLD,' — in vision said
The Voice to John on Patmos —
'I make all things new !'
Vanish before his view
The earth and heavens old ;
In splendor manifold
New heavens and earth appear
To the enraptured seer :
And lo ! descending from the skies,
Fairer than storied paradise,
He saw the New Jerusalem, —
Apparelled as a bride
With gold and precious gem, —
And heard a Voice that cried :
'God's dwelling is with men,
And he will wipe away all tears,
And death shall be no more, nor pain ;

Passed are the things of former years :
Behold, I make all things new !
Write: for faithful are these words and true.

So speaks to thee, O heart,
As the swift years depart
The re-creating Voice.
Turn not in vain regret
To thy fond yesterdays,
But rather forward set
Thy face toward the untrodden ways.
Open thine eyes to see
The good in store for thee, —
New love, new thought, new service too
For him who daily maketh thy life new.
Nor think thou aught is lost
Or left behind upon the silent coast
Of thy spent years ;
Give o'er thy faithless fears.
Whate'er of real good —
Of thought, or deed, or holier mood —
Thy life hath known
Abideth still thine own,
And hath within significance

Of more than Time's inheritance.
Thy good is prophecy
Of better still to be.
In the future thou shalt find
How far the Fact hath left behind
Thy fondest Dream ; how deeper than all sense
Or thought of thine, thy life's sure Providence !

THE DAY

ROUTINE of duties,
Commonplace cares, —
Angels disguised
Entertained unawares ; -

Sweet human fellowships
Kindred and near,
Drawing the soul from
Its self atmosphere ;

The book's friendly company,
Leading along
To fields of new knowledge
And uplands of song ;

In-shinings of Nature,
Morning's red bars,
Waysides in beauty,
Night with its stars ;

The nearer communion
In silence apart,
When thought blooms to prayer
And song fills the heart,

While the things unseen
Grow more and more real,
And life deepens and broadens
Toward larger ideal: —

How many the blessings
Each day has to give
The soul that is seeking Truly to live!

THE HILLS OF THE LORD

God ploughed one day with an earthquake,
And drove his furrows deep !
The huddling plains upstarted,
The hills were all a-leap !

But that is the mountain's secret,
Age-hidden in their breast ;
'God's peace is everlasting,'
Are the dream-words of their rest.

He hath made them the haunt of beauty,
The home elect of his grace ;
He spreadeth his mornings on them,
His sunsets light their face.

His thunders tread in music
Of footfalls echoing long,
And carry majestic greeting
Around the silent throng.

His winds bring messages to them,
Wild storm-news from the main ;
They sing it down to the valleys
In the love-song of the rain.

Green tribes from far come trooping,
And over the uplands flock ;
He weaveth the zones together
In robes for his risen rock.

They are nurseries for young rivers ;
Nests for his flying cloud ;
Homesteads for new-born races,
Masterful, free, and proud.

The people of tired cities
Come up to their shrines and pray ;
God freshens again within them,
As he passes by all day.

And lo, I have caught their secret,
The beauty deeper than all,
This faith, — that life's hard moments,
When the jarring sorrows befall,

Are but God ploughing his mountains ;
    And the mountains yet shall be
The source of his grace and freshness
    And his peace everlasting to me.

WHITEFIELD, 1870

SUNDAY ON THE HILL-TOP

ONLY ten miles from the city, —
And how I am lifted away
To the peace that passeth knowing,
And the light that is not of day!

All alone on the hill-top!
Nothing but God and me,
And the spring-time's resurrection,
Far shinings of the sea,

The river's laugh in the valley,
Hills dreaming of their past;
And all things silently opening,
Opening into the Vast!

Eternities past and future
Seem clinging to all I see,
And things immortal cluster
Around my bended knee.

That pebble — is older than Adam !
    Secrets it hath to tell ;
These rocks — they cry out history,
    Could I but listen well.

That pool knows the ocean-feeling
    Of storm and moon-led tide ;
The sun finds its East and West therein,
    And the stars find room to glide.

That lichen's crinkled circle
    Creeps with the Life Divine,
Where the Holy Spirit loitered
    On its way to this face of mine, —

On its way to the shining faces
    Where angel-lives are led,
And I am the lichen's circle
    That creeps with the tiny tread.

I can hear these violets chorus
    To the sky's benediction above: —
And we all are together lying
    On the bosom of Infinite Love.

I — I am a part of the poem,
Of its every sight and sound ;
For my heart beats inward rhymings
To the Sabbath that lies around.

Oh, the peace at the heart of Nature !
Oh, the light that is not of day !
Why seek it afar forever,
When it cannot be lifted away ?

BLUE HILL, May 21, 1871

THE CATHEDRAL

SHELF over shelf the mountain rose ;
And, as we climbed, they seemed the stair
That scales a minster's wall to seek
Some high-hid cell of prayer.

But every stair was carpeted
With mosses soft of gray and green,
And gold and crimson arabesques
Trailed in and out between.

Up, up, o'er ferny pavements still,
O'er dim mosaics of the wood,
O'er rocky terraces, we trod,
Till on the height we stood.

About the ancient mountain-walls
The silent wildernesses clung ;
In solemn frescos, moving slow,
The clouds their shadows flung.

Along the valley-deeps below
The shimmer of a forest floor, —
A leafy brightness, like the sea,
Wide twinkling o'er and o'er.

Niched in the mighty minster, we,
Beneath the dome of radiant blue :
Cathedral-hush on every side,
And worship breathing through !

There came wild music on the winds,
The chanting of the forest choir,
Shaken across the ranged hills
As over a chorded lyre.

Then pauses as for quiet prayer,
And lulls, in which the listeners heard
Home-voices speak, while faces neared
Swifter than any bird.

Of Strength eternal, by whose will
The hills their steadfast places keep,
Whose Right is like the mountains high,
Whose Judgments are a deep, —

In grand old Bible verse we spoke,
And following close like echoes sped
The poems best beloved. The words
    Along the silence fled.

The Silence, awful Living Word
Behind all sound, behind all thought,
Whose speech is Nature-yet-to-be,
    The Poem yet unwrought!

That day it spake within the soul,
Through sense all strangely blent with sense:
The vision took majestic rhythm, —
    We heard the firmaments!

And listened, time and space forgot,
As flowed the lesson for the day, —
'Order is Beauty; Law is Love;
    Childlike his worlds obey.'

And all the heaven seemed folding down
Above the shining earth's sweet face,
Till in our hearts they touched! We felt
    The thrill of their embrace.

Then, in its peace, we wandered down
Our rocky staircase from the height ;
On dim mosaics of the wood
    We met the climbing Night.

THE PAST

For us no Past? Nay, what is present sweetness

But yesterdays dissolving in to-day?

No Past? It flowers in every new completeness,

And scarce from eye and ear can hide away.

These berries, mottling blue the rocky hollows,

Still cluster with the blossom-trick of June;

The cloud-led shadow loiters there and follows

O'er crags sun-stained by centuries of noon;

Yon aged pine waves young defiant gesture

When hustling winds pant by in wild sea-mood;

The valley's grace in all its shining vesture, —

Ages have carved it from the solitude;

Low sings the stream in murmurs faint recalling

The chant of floods the solitude once heard;
And this wide quiet on the hill-tops falling
Made hush at eves that listener never stirred.

And as on us it falls, our laughter stilling,
Dim echoes cross it of all old delight!
The joy, along the soul's far reaches thrilling
To glory of the summer day and night,
Has been inwrought by many a summer-hour
Of past selves long forgot, — enrichment slow,

Attuning mind and heart with mystic power
To the fresh marvel of this sunset's glow.
I think we see our valley's brightness brighter
For faces that once brightened by our side ;
The peace of the eternal mountains deepens
At thought of peace on faces that have died.

For us no Past ? Nay, what is present sweetness ?

Dear yesterdays dissolving in to-day!

The Past — it flowers in every new complete-
ness

Of thought, faith, hope ; and so shall be for aye.

Sunset on 'Crow Nest,' August, 1875

SUMMER CHEMISTRY

What does it take

A day to make, —

A day at the Bear Camp Ossipee ?

White clouds a-sail in the shining blue,
Dropping a shadow to dredge the lands ;
A mountain-wind, and a marching storm,
And a sound in the trees like waves on sands ;

A mist to soften the shaggy side
Of the great green hill, till it lies as dim
As the hills in a childhood memory ;
The crags and the ledges silver-chased,
Where yesterday's rainy runlets raced ;
The back of an upland pasture steep,
With delicate fern-beds notching wide
The dark wood-line where the birches keep Candlemas all the summer-tide ;
Brown-flashing across the meadow bright
The stream that gems its malachite ;
And, watching his valley, Chocorua grim,
And a golden sunset watching him !

Add — fifty lives of young and old,
Of tired and sad, of strong and bold,
And every heart a deeper sea
Than its own owner dreams can be ;
Add eyes whose glances have the law
Of coursing planets in their draw ;
Add careless hands that touch and part,
And hands that greet with a heaven's sense ;
Add little children in their glee
Uprunning to a mother's knee,
Their earliest altar ; add her heart,
Their feeble, brooding Providence : —

Add this to that, and thou shalt see
What goes to summer chemistry, —
What the God takes,
Each time he makes
One summer-day at Ossipee.

Bear Camp River House, WEST OSSIPEE,
August, 1877

WHERE DID IT GO ?

WHERE did yesterday's sunset go,
When it faded down the hills so slow,
And the gold grew dim, and the purple light
Like an army with banners passed from sight ?

Will its flush go into the golden-rod,
Its thrill to the purple aster's nod,
Its crimson fleck the maple-bough,
And the Autumn-glory begin from now ?

Deeper than flower-fields sank the glow
Of the silent pageant passing slow.

It flushed all night in many a dream,
It thrilled in the folding hush of prayer,
It glided into a poet's song,
It is setting still in a picture rare ;

It changed by the miracle none can see
To the shifting lights of a symphony ;
And in resurrections of faith and hope
The glory died on the shining slope.

For it left its light on the hills and seas
That rim a thousand memories.

WEST OSSIPEE, 1877

RECOGNITION

TWICE have I turned to hear a tone,
And thrice have I seen a look,
That tell me well the soul that I love
Is to me but a sealèd book.

'T was only the name of her little child,
And a 'Darling !' one day as she kissed ;
But twice those household words were strains
Out of exquisite music missed.

I remember the raptured hour she stood
With love-light haloining her,
When her lips were dim in the crimson tides
From the deeps of joy astir :

And once, 'mid the pain of farewell tears
For an exile seaward doomed,
How her form upreached like a quivering stem
And a new face suddenly bloomed :

And then, a day in a shaded room,
A day in the valley of Death ; —
She must journey and wrestle alone, — and we,
We waited with bated breath,
Until the radiant marvel broke
Of her resurrection-face,
And the weary eyes, her victory won,
So peacefully filled with grace.

Three days that star-look on us beamed,
And the bed was a holy shrine,
Where soft we worshipped the new-born
Child
O'erhung by the Mother's sign !

Slowly it faded, and welcome grew
For the old dear eyes returned, —
The light of our home, but not the eyes
Where the angel-look had burned.

---

Do you wonder an awe enfolds my love
For the presence with whom I dwell, —
My inmost friend, but a stranger too,
Whom I know not over well ?

Her soul to me is an Upper Land,
Where mornings rise unseen
On pathless mountain-mysteries
And dells of hidden green.

I am so glad of her gardens sweet
Too sacred for me to walk,
So glad of the sunlit heights too far
To echo our mingled talk !

And I try to climb and listen and watch ;
For may be the sense will grow,
Till into her loneliness I may press
And all of her sweetness know !

---

A marvel! But what if there be a truth
Passing in wonder this ?
Can she be to herself as dim, unknown,
And the best of her nature miss ?

Can there be in us all those heights of will
And shadowy deeps of thought,
A land in the heart of each one's life
With self-surprises fraught, —

Whither, in sudden mystical hours
When the conscious self is forgot,
We are rapt as into an upper self,
And stand in the light of a spot,

Where are born those exquisite tones that stray
To startle the common days,
And the look that heralds our angel-smile
Dawns into our eyes and ways ?

Only a minute, — and then we are back
In the meadows far below,
Where the life-winds sweep and the life-
streams run,
And nought of their source we know !

I verily think that she I love
Would hardly a meaning trace,
Should I speak to her of that twice-heard tone
And the thrice-illuminated face.

IN A LOOK

ALL the Morning in a face, —
Freshness of all happy space !
Sense of sunrise in a sky
Serious still with stars gone by ;
Sense of song in waking woods,
Winds a-laugh in solitudes,
Dawn surprising dewy fields,
Springing sounds as slumber yields,
Breaths of prayer, the rush of wings, —
Morning, deep with happy things !

---

Summer Twilight in a face !
Evening shadows stilling space ;
Two stars in a silent sky ;
After-calm, — a sun gone by ;
Wood-paths darkening, bird-song closing,
Flowers on their stems reposing ;

Widening, widening, from the grass
Rhythmic tides of music pass, —
Pass within, and hush the streams,
Whose thought-babble dies in dreams !

---

These before me seem to rise,
When they look me in the eyes.

THE FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY

W. H. F.

FIFTY times the years have turned,
Since the heart within him burned
With its wistfulness to be
An apostle sent of thee.

Closely in his Master's tread
Still to follow, till he read
Tone of voice and look of face,
Print of wound and sign of grace.

Reading there for fifty years,
Pressing after, till the tears
And the smiles would come and go
At the self-same joy and woe, —

Sharing with him shouts of 'Mad !'
When the bold front to the bad
Bent to pluck the 'little ones'
From the feet of fellow-sons, —

Sharing in his inner peace,
Sharing all but his release, —
He is with us while the chimes
Ring our blessing fifty times.

Listening boys across the field
Hear, and hope they may not yield :
Are they listening from the air, —
Boys who started with him there ?

PHILADELPHIA, 1875

THE TEACHER

G. R. N.

A LIGHT upon the harvest-field,
A 'Well-done!' in the air :
'Rest-Angel, only *wear*y yield !'
Rose up his eager prayer.

Again in work went by the day,
Till working hands grew thin ;
Once more the restful shining lay, —
The old man entered in.

A teacher he, in white-haired youth ;
The body's cloister, old, —
The spirit growing young with Truth
Through birthdays manifold.

A teacher he of oracles,
And one his life did sing :
The field lies always Harvest-white,
If inly lies the Spring.

THE CLIFF AT NEWPORT

I WALK the Cliff, in earlier days oft trod
By one whose advent brought new life to men ;

A prophet of the soul, speaking again
To earth-bound hearts of the deep things of God.

Below, the passionate sea still beats in vain,
And white sails gleam along the horizon broad ;

The same sky bends above — beneath, the sod

As then is freshened by the Summer rain.
But, interfused with all, there shines to-day
A beauty born not of the earth or skies,
Making twice fair what was so fair before :
'T is that a noble Soul has passed this way,
Leaving a holy memory to rise
And speak to thought and feeling evermore.

IN SLEEP

L. N. R.

'He giveth his beloved (in) sleep.'

Not in our waking hours alone
His constancy and care are known ;
But locked in slumber fast and deep
He giveth to us while we sleep.

What giveth He ? From toil release,
Quiet from God, night's starlit peace ;
Till with the coming of the morn
We greet the day, like it new-born.

And pondering this mystery,
There came a larger truth to me, —
How in the sleep that we call death
He sleepeth not nor slumbereth,

But still sustains the silent soul
Until the shadows backward roll,
And with the passing of the night
It wakens in immortal light!

What giveth He ? No more again
To know the touch of mortal pain ;
All weakness past, each fetter riven, —
For earth the larger life of heaven !

Dear friend, as o'er thy pallid face
The tall white lilies breathed their peace,
And stillness like a solitude
Enwrap the tearful multitude,

How sweetly on that sea of calm
Floated the music of the psalm, —
The Spirit's voice upon the deep, —
' He giveth his beloved sleep !'

Once more the sun with lavish hand
Pours lengthening day along the land ;
But not with spring-time bloom and bird
Thy smile returns, thy voice is heard :

Yet still we say the old-time words
' In life, in death, we are the Lord's :'
And trust thee to his love to keep
Who giveth to his own in sleep.

MINISTRY

E. A. B.

JUST on the threshold of threescore-and-ten —

An upward pathway, shining more and more —

She heard the call, and passed within the door

Whence none that enters ever comes again.

Henceforth will Want await her step in vain,

Wise Charity will have a lessened store :

The beatings of a faithful heart are o'er,
And struggling Truth has lost a loyal brain.

Ah, foolish plaint! Hath God no other sphere

For virtue's use, and love, and loyalty,

That they should perish with the body's breath ?

O noble Friend, thy life's long service here

Thou crownest now with its best ministry,

And quickenest faith beside the door of death !

THE MINISTER'S JOURNEY

Not to the lanes of England,
Cathedral-aisles of France,
Or up the mountain-hollows
Where Alpine torrents glance ;

Not in the storied cities
And old highways of life,
Where shadowy generations
Have passed in song and strife ;

Where Raphael hath painted,
Or Socrates was born,
Or prophets once were cradled
In Nazareths of scorn ;—

But on more wonderful journeys
Than any the pilgrims know,
Our traveller has been roving, —
The book in his heart can show

He has voyaged with the Captains
Who sail the seas of thought,
Daring with them the tempest,
Hailing with them the port.

And many a dreamer's island
Has added to his lore
The hope that made it Patmos, —
One heavenly vision more.

In lands men deemed unholy
He gleaned from every clod
Some treasure-trove, revealing
Horizons new of God.

Till Heathenese grew homelike ;
While the traveller's tale was still
Of a Ceaseless Care, whose presence
Out-worketh good from ill.

And unto sacred places,
The Palestines within,
By pathways of the Spirit,
Our traveller hath been.

Along the silent beaches
That men call Birth and Death,
Rimming our fields of summer,
Giving us ocean-breath,

He paces as a watcher
Watching the tidal sweep ;
And his greeting is full of music
Caught from the central deep.

He knows the founts of laughter ;
Where psalms in mothers rise ;
How purpose dawns in manhood,
And love in maiden eyes.

In still lanes of confession,
In solemn aisles of prayer,
On Alps of high endeavor, —
We meet him everywhere !

The others see but Europe,
And go as feet may fare ;
Our pilgrim, still out-sailing,
Sees many an Outre-Mer !

IN TWOS

SOMEWHERE in the world there hide
Garden-gates that no one sees
Save they come in happy twos, —
Not in ones, nor yet in threes.

But from every maiden's door
Leads a pathway straight and true ;
Map and survey know it not, —
He who finds, finds room for two !

Then they see the garden-gates !
Never skies so blue as theirs,
Never flowers so many-sweet,
As for those who come in pairs.

Round and round the alleys wind :
Now a cradle bars the way,
Now a little mound, behind, —
So the two go through the day.

When no nook in all the lanes
But has heard a song or sigh,
Lo ! another garden-gate
Opens as the two go by.

In they wander, knowing not ;
' Five and Twenty ! ' fills the air
With a silvery echo low,
All about the startled pair.

Happier yet these garden-walks :
Closer, heart to heart, they lean ;
Stillier, softer, falls the light ;
Few the twos, and far between.

Till, at last, as on they pass
Down the paths so well they know,
Once again at hidden gates
Stand the two : they enter slow.

Golden Gates of ' Fifty Years,'
May our two your latchet press !
Garden of the Sunset Land,
Hold their dearest happiness !

Then a quiet walk again:
Then a wicket in the wall:
Then one, stepping on alone, —
Then two at the Heart of All!

POEM AND DOGMA

'T WAS Schliemann back from Troy,
With relics bronze and gold :
Where other eyes saw violets,
He saw the city old.

And, fondling a brown skull, —
' My learned friend,' said he,
' Tells me that this a maiden's was,
In Troy beyond the sea ;

And from these angles here
Of brow and cheek-bone fine,
He judges that my maiden was
A creature quite divine.

' Ah, yes ! ' he added low,
' Virchow was right just there,
For all the maidens of old Troy
Were beautiful and rare.'

---

By summer chance we met,
And sat in chatting mood:
Said one, 'How noble Jesus' word
In that Beatitude!'

'Ah, yes!' chimed in a friend,
'You speak it truly there,
For all that Jesus said or was,
Was right beyond compare.'

'And Paul,' one said, 'was wrong;
How far from light he trod!' —
'But then, you know,' my lady chirped,
''T is all the Word of God.'

---

The artlessness the same!
And why should tears half-start
Over the fabled beauty gone, —
Poem of German heart ;

While, with half-angry thought,
I smile away the creed
Of fabled beauty they would fain
Persuade me that I need ?

Angry! who know their creeds
Were poems, too, — that died ;
That all the world's old dogmas are
Its poems petrified.

THE HALO

'One London dealer in birds received, when the fashion was at its height, a single consignment of thirty-two thousand dead humming-birds; and another received at one time thirty thousand aquatic birds, and three hundred thousand pairs of wings.'

THINK what a price to pay,
Faces so bright and gay,
Just for a hat!
Flowers unvisited, mornings unsung,
Sea-ranges bare of the wings that o'er-swung, —
Bared just for that!

Think of the others, too,
Others and mothers, too,
Bright-Eyes in hat!
Hear you no mother-groan floating in air,
Hear you no little moan, — birdlings' despair, —
Somewhere, for that?

Caught 'mid some mother-work,
Torn by a hunter Turk,
    Just for your hat !
Plenty of mother-heart yet in the world:
All the more wings to tear, carefully twirled !
    Women want that ?

Oh, but the shame of it,
Oh, but the blame of it, —
    Price of a hat !
Just for a jauntiness brightening the street !
This is your halo, O faces so sweet, —
    Death : and for that !

NOT ALL THERE

'The innocents, of whom the Scotch say, "They are not all there."'

SOMETHING short in the making, —
    Something lost on the way,
As the little Soul was taking
    Its path to the break of Day !

Only his mood or passion,
    But it twitched an atom back ;
And she, for her gods of fashion,
    Filched from the pilgrim's pack.

The Father did not mean it,
    The Mother did not know,
No human eye had seen it, —
    But the little Soul needed it so !

---

Through the street there passed a cripple,
    Maimed from before its birth ;
On the strange face gleamed a ripple,
    Like a half-dawn on the earth.

It passed, — and it awed the city,
As one not alive nor dead :
Eyes looked and brimmed with pity, —
‘He is not all there,’ they said.

Not all ! for part is behind it,
Lying dropt on the way :
That part — could two but find it,
How welcome the end of Day !

LET IT BEGIN HERE

Captain Parker's words on Lexington Green: 'Don't fire, unless you are fired on; but if they want a war, let it begin here!'

THE April thrills along the hills,
The violets wake below,
But never to the thrill they knew
A hundred years ago,
What day the calls from pasture-walls
In echoing signals ran,
And swift replied the country-side
To what they here began.

'Let it begin!' a Voice within
The waiting farmers spake, —
His voice in whom the Aprils bloom,
In whom the Nations wake!
Old lands had yearned, old dreamers burned
Fair Freedom's day to win,
And still it fled, — the farmers said,
'Now let it here begin!'

And at the word a Nation stirred !
Without or king or caste,
Serene and strong to right their wrong,
THE PEOPLE rose at last !
All quick to feel the common weal,
The many in the one,
Heart pledged to heart no more to part :—
And this was here begun !

AUNT PHILLIS'S GUEST

St. Helena Island in 1863

I WAS young and 'Harry' was strong,
The summer was bursting from sky and plain,
Thrilling our blood as we bounded along, —
When a picture flashed, and I dropped the rein.

A black sea-creek, with snaky run
Slipping through low green leagues of sedge ;
An ebbing tide, and a setting sun ;
A hut and a woman by the edge.

Her back was bent and her wool was gray ;
The wrinkles lay close on the withered face ;
Children were buried and sold away, —
The Freedom had come to the last of a race !

She lived from a neighbor's hominy-pot ;
    And praised the Lord, if 'the pain' passed by ;
From the earthen floor the smoke curled out
    Through shingles patched with the bright blue sky.

'Aunt Phillis, you live here all alone ?'
    I asked, and pitied the gray old head ;
Sure as a child, in quiet tone,
    'Me and Jesus, Massa,' she said.

I started, for all the place was aglow
    With a presence I had not seen before ;
The air was full of a music low,
    And the Guest Divine stood at the door !

Ay, it was true that the Lord of Life,
    Who seeth the widow give her mite,
Had watched this slave in her weary strife,
    And shown himself to her longing sight.

The hut and the dirt, the rags and the skin,
    The grovelling want and the darkened mind, —

I looked on this ; but the Lord, within :
I would what he saw was in me to find !

A childlike soul, whose faith had force
To see what the angels see in bliss :
She lived, and the Lord lived ; so, of course,
They lived together, — she knew but this.

And the life that I had almost despised
As something to pity, so poor and low,
Had already borne fruit that the Lord so prized
He loved to come near and see it grow.

No sorrow for her that the life was done :
A few days more of the hut's unrest,
A little while longer to sit in the sun, —
Then — He would be host, and she would be guest !

And up above, if an angel of light
Should stop on his errand of love some day
To ask, ' Who lives in the mansion bright ?'
' Me and Jesus,' Aunt Phillis will say.

---

A fancy, foolish and fond, does it seem ?
And things are not as Aunt Phillises dream ?

Friend, surely so !

For this I know, —

That our faiths are foolish by falling below,
Not coming above, what God will show ;
That his commonest thing hides a wonder vast,

To whose beauty our eyes have never passed ;
That his fact in the present, or in the to-be,
Outshines the best that we think we see.

THE NEGRO BURYING-GROUND

St. Helena Island in 1863

'MID the sunny flat of the cotton-field
Lies an acre of forest-tangle still ;
A cloister dim, where the gray moss waves
And the live-oaks lock their arms at will.

Here in the shadows the slaves would hide
As they dropped the hoe at death's release,
And leave no sign but a sinking mound
To show where they passed on their way to peace.

This was the Gate — there was none but this —

To a Happy Land where men were men ;
And the dusky fugitives, one by one,
Stole in from the bruise of the prison-pen.

When, lo! in the distance boomed the guns,
The bruise was over, and 'Massa' had fled !
But Death is the ' Massa ' that never flees,
So still to the oaks they bore the dead.

'T was at set of sun ; a tattered troop
 Of children circled a little grave,
 Chanting an anthem rich in its peace
 As ever pealed in cathedral-nave, —

The A, B, C, that the lips below
 Had learnt with them in the school to shout.

Over and over they sung it slow,
 Crooning a mystic meaning out.

A, B, C, D, E, F, G, —

Down solemn alphabets they swept :
 The oaks leaned close, the moss swung low, —
 What strange new sound among them crept ?

The holiest hymn that the children knew !

'T was dreams come real, and heaven come near ;

'T was light, and liberty, and joy,
 And 'white-folks'-sense,' — and God right here !

Over and over ; they dimly felt

This was the charm could make black white,
This was the secret of ' Massa's ' pride,
And this, unknown, made the negro's night.

What could they sing of braver cheer

To speed on her unseen way the friend ?
The children were facing the mystery Death
With the deepest prayer that their hearts could send.

---

Children, too, and the mysteries last !

We are but comrades with them there, —
Stammering over a meaning vast,
Crooning our guesses of how and where.

But the children were right with their A, B, C ;

In our stammering guess so much we say !
The singers were happy, and so are we :
Deep as our wants are the prayers we pray.

GETTYSBURG IN 1885

After a visit to the Panorama

ONE step from the busy street, and there,
With the summer hills around,
In the heart of a summer day it lies, —
A Battle without a sound.

Whatever of battle the eyes may see —
The sweep of men to death,
The dash of horse, and the rush of gun,
The musket's fiery breath ;

The massing clouds of the cannon-smoke,
The horror of bursting shell,
The wreck of wheel and caisson,
The surgeon's mimic hell ;

The uptossed arms and the ashen cheek,
The droop of the shattered limb,
The men by the blood-pools in the grass,
The bodies stiff and grim.

We see it all, and we hear no sound !
We listen for roar and boom,
For the crack and the ping and the bullet's thud : —
A stillness like the tomb !

No rattle to wheel, no clatter to hoof,
No bugle-call or cry,
No fierce hurrah along that line
Where the columns press to die ;

Those sullen prisoners give no oath ;
The face in the grass no groan ;
Its ' Good-bye ! ' reached a thousand miles,
But we catch never a tone.

Ah, if we could add sound to sight,
And then could paint the strain
And the splendor in the soldier's heart,
Breasting death's hurricane,

And the flashing signals of his thought
To homes that signal back,
And the woman's face and the climbing child
That lie in the bullet's track ;

And the breathless pause, each pulse-beat hushed,
Of a watching continent ;
And the sense of a nation's fate at stake
In the awful tournament ;

And the upturned brows of a million slaves
Reading the face of God
For the word that would lift them into Men,
Or doom them back to the Clod, —

Could we rim all this in those summer hills
And add to what eyes see,
In the cloister quaint by the city street
Then ' Gettysburg ' would be !

---

And yet, as I hark, the soundlessness
Seems song of the war's release,
And the beauty to hint, 'mid Battle's woe,
The Battle's after-peace.

THE RIGHT GOES MARCHING ON

For Decoration Day

ONE moment on the scaffold, and he left it
Holy Ground!

Three hundred thousand heroes now lie guarding it around,

And reverent hearts are pilgrim still to many a sacred mound, —

And the Right goes marching on!

God had counted up the slave-graves, and heard the black man's moan,

Till at last his leaping thunder shook the awful Judgment-Throne, —

'For each lash a cannon-crash! For each cry a battle-groan!' —

And the Right goes marching on.

The Hands wherein the sparrow falls, that beckon to the star,

Are Hands that harness unseen dooms to Wrong's triumphal car,

And the steeds untiring draw the nations trembling to the Bar, —
And the Right goes marching on !

Then, if perchance a nation's Soul from out her shame shall rise,
And light of Justice kindle fresh within her
chastened eyes,
The God who dooms shall save her by the pain that purifies, —
And the Right goes marching on !

Lo, the flowers are all a-blossom, and the grasses are a-wave
Where the bodies of our hero dead are sleeping in the grave :
So shall beauty crown salvation through the Hands so strong to save, —
And the Right goes marching on !

OUR COUNTRY

'O BEAUTIFUL, my Country !'

Be thine a nobler care
Than all thy wealth of commerce,
Thy harvests waving fair :
Be it thy pride to lift up
The manhood of the poor ;
Be thou to the oppressèd
Fair Freedom's open door !

For thee our fathers suffered,
For thee they toiled and prayed ;
Upon thy holy altar
Their willing lives they laid.
Thou hast no common birthright,
Grand memories on thee shine ;
The blood of pilgrim nations
Commingled flows in thine.

O Beautiful, our Country !
Round thee in love we draw :
Thine is the grace of Freedom,
The majesty of Law.
Be Righteousness thy sceptre,
Justice thy diadem ;
And on thy shining forehead
Be Peace the crowning gem !

ONE LAW, ONE LIFE, ONE LOVE

O PROPHEET souls of all the years,
Bend o'er us from above;
Your far-off vision, toils and tears
Now to fulfilment move!

From tropic clime and zones of frost
They come, of every name,—
This, this our day of Pentecost,
The Spirit's tongue of flame!

The ancient barriers disappear:
Down bow the mountains high;
The sea-divided shores draw near
In world-wide unity.

One Life together we confess,
One all-indwelling Word,
One holy Call to righteousness
Within the silence heard:

10 ONE LAW, ONE LIFE, ONE LOVE

One Law that guides the shining spheres
As on through space they roll,
And speaks in flaming characters
On Sinais of the soul :

One Love, unfathomed, measureless,
An ever-flowing sea,
That holds within its vast embrace
Time and eternity.

‘WHO WERT AND ART AND EVERMORE SHALT BE’

BRING, O Morn, thy music! Bring, O
Night, thy hushes!
Oceans, laugh the rapture to the storm-winds coursing free!
Suns and stars are singing, Thou art our Creator,
Who wert and art and evermore shalt
be!

Life and Death, thy creatures, praise thee,
Mighty Giver!
Praise and prayer are rising in thy beast
and bird and tree:
Lo! they praise and vanish, vanish at thy bidding, —
Who wert and art and evermore shalt
be!

Light us! lead us! love us! cry thy groping nations,
Pleading in the thousand tongues but naming only thee,
Weaving blindly out thy holy, happy purpose, —
Who wert and art and evermore shalt
be!

Life nor Death can part us, O thou Love
Eternal,
Shepherd of the wandering star and souls
that wayward flee!
Homeward draws the spirit to thy Spirit yearning, —
Who wert and art and evermore shalt
be!

IN LONELY VIGIL

O THOU in lonely vigil led
To follow Truth's new-risen star
Ere yet her morning skies are red,
And vale and upland shadowed are, —

Gird up thy loins and take thy road,
Obedient to the vision be :
Trust not in numbers ; God is God,
And one with Him majority !

Soon pass the judgments of the hour,
Forgotten are the scorn and blame ;
The Word moves on, a gladdening power,
And safe enshrines the prophet's fame,

Now, as of old, in lowly plight
The Christ of larger faith is born :
The watching shepherds come by night,
And then — the kings of earth at morn !

Emerson Commemoration, W. U. C., 1888

EDELWEISS

From the German of Hermann Lingg

ON the rock and girt with ice,
Neighbor to the circling star,
Bloomest thou, dear edelweiss,
From all other flowers afar;
By their joyous spring unblest,
Lonely on the rock's cold breast.

Where the lightnings have their home,
And the startled chamois listen,
Where the plunging waters foam,
Eagles reign, and glaciers glisten, —
Death and terror everywhere, —
Pure and glad thou bloomest there.

So stands he in noble pain,
Lone anear the arching heaven,
Lonely proud, who worldly gain,
Smiles and honors, all has given
Freely as his freedom's price, —
As thou bloomest, edelweiss!

EDELWEISS

THIS edelweiss I wear was not first mine ;
I had it cheaply in the little town
Of one who from the mountains had come down ;
A meek-eyed man, rough-clad, with many a sign
Of burning sun and of the tempest's frown.
Now through the valley, with its corn and wine,
His star-blooms badge the thronging tourists fine
Whose feet his toilsome path have never known.

O prophet souls, who with bruised feet have trod
The heaven-lit heights and thence to us have brought
Your wider vision, your high-hearted faith,
Your hope for Man, your larger thought of God, —

We wear your edelweiss ; Life's common lot
Ever to your high service witnesseth !

SWITZERLAND, 1888

THE CROWNING DAY

THE morning hangs its signal
Upon the mountain's crest,
While all the sleeping valleys
In silent darkness rest;
From peak to peak it flashes,
It laughs along the sky
That the crowning day is coming by and by!

Chorus: O, the crowning day is coming,
Is coming by and by!
We can see the rose of morning,
A glory in the sky.
And that splendor on the hill-tops
O'er all the land shall lie
In the crowning day that's coming by and by!

Above the generations
The lonely prophets rise, —
The Truth flings dawn and day-star
Within their glowing eyes;

From heart to heart it brightens,
It draweth ever nigh,
Till it crowneth all men thinking, by and by!
Chorus : O, the crowning day is coming!

The soul hath lifted moments
Above the drift of days,
When life's great meaning breaketh
In sunrise on our ways ;
From hour to hour it haunts us,
The vision draweth nigh,
Till it crowneth living, dying, by and by !
Chorus : O, the crowning day is coming!

And in the sunrise standing,
Our kindling hearts confess
That 'no good thing is failure,
No evil thing success !'
From age to age it groweth,
That radiant faith so high,
And its crowning day is coming by and by !
Chorus : O, the crowning day is coming !

Music : 'Gospel Hymns,' No. 416. 1886

THE DAY OF GOD

THY kingdom come, — on bended knee
The passing ages pray ;
And faithful souls have yearned to see
On earth that kingdom's day.

But the slow watches of the night
Not less to God belong,
And for the everlasting Right
The silent stars are strong.

And lo ! already on the hills
The flags of dawn appear ;
Gird up your loins, ye prophet souls,
Proclaim the day is near !

The day in whose clear-shining light
All wrong shall stand revealed ;
When justice shall be throned in might,
And every hurt be healed :

When knowledge hand in hand with peace
Shall walk the earth abroad, —
The day of perfect righteousness,
The promised day of God!

M. T. S., June 12, 1891

THE INWARD WITNESS

O THOU whose Spirit witness bears
Within our spirits free
That we thy children are and heirs
Of thine eternity, —

Here may this simple faith sublime
O'er-arch us like the sky;
Secure below the drift of time
Its firm foundations lie.

Our thought o'erflows each written scroll,
Our creeds, they rise and fall;
The life of God within the soul
Lives and outlasts them all.

Here may that witness clearer grow
Each waiting heart within,
The way of filial duty show
And glad obedience win.

Here be life's sorrows sanctified,
Here truth her radiance pour ;
While hope and faith and love abide,
Forever more and more !

For T K., OMAHA, 1891

THOU WHO ART STRONG TO HEAL

O FOUNT of Being's sea,
Forever flowing free,
    The One in all, —
Thou whom no eye e'er saw,
Indwelling Love and Law,
To thee we suppliant draw,
    On thee we call.

Be consecrate to truth,
In manhood as in youth,
    Our growing powers;
That we may read thy thought
Nature and Life inwrought,
Thy perfect will be taught,
    And make it ours!

Thine image may we own
In Man, creation's crown,
    These temples thine:

Holy our calling be,
From bonds of pain to free,
And bring the liberty
Of life divine!

Thy presence still abide
Within these walls to guide,
Inspire and bless;
Thou who art strong to heal,
The Christ-like touch reveal,
And in each spirit seal
Thy tenderness!

Rush Medical College, CHICAGO, 1891

THE HEAVENLY HELPER

UNTO thee, abiding ever,
Look I in my need,
Strength of every good endeavor,
Holy thought and deed!

Thou dost guide the stars of heaven,
Heal the broken heart,
Bring in turn the morn and even, —
Law and Love thou art.

Clouds and darkness are about thee,
Just and sure thy throne, —
Not a sparrow falls without thee,
All to thee is known.

Origin and end of being,
All things in and through, —
Light thou art of all my seeing,
Power to will and do.

Through my life, whate'er betide me,
Thou my trust shalt be ;
Whom have I on earth beside thee,
Whom in heaven but thee ?

CHURCH-BELLS

OVER hills and valleys,
Over prairies wide,
Quiet call the church-bells
To the altar-side.
High in old cathedrals
Chant the brazen lips,
Down the leafy by-ways
Airy pleading slips.

In his toil the worker
Pauses at the sound, —
Heaven a little nearer,
Earth a holier ground.
At the sound the Sundays
With low music fill, —
Hark! the lands are singing,
Then with prayers are still.

Softer than the church-bells
With their mellow peal,
Softer, sweeter calling,
Mystic voices steal;

All the shadowy valleys
Memory calls her own,
All the spirit's hill-tops
Listen for the tone.

Every soul that listens
Hears the secret chime, —
Bells from quiet inlands
Out of space or time;
Mother-tones will stir them,
Child-appeals will start,
Hero-deeds will set them
Ringing in the heart.

Matin calls of duty
Wake us every day;
'Mid each happy labor
Angelus says 'Pray!'
Every hour that passes
Hath a vesper end,
Breathing, 'One who sleeps not
Is thy constant Friend.'

Every hope that wings us,
Making eagle-free,
Every shame that bows us,
Every loyalty,
Each new joy and laughter,
Sorrows old that bide, —
Are God's church-bells calling
To an altar-side.

SUN-GLEAMS

As silent as the sun-gleam in the forest,
As quiet as the shadow on the hill,
Is the shining of the Spirit in our dimness,
Is the falling of its calm upon our will.

But subtler than the sun-lift in the leaf-bud,
That thrills through all the forests, making
May,
And stronger than the strength that plants
the mountains,
Is that shining in the heart-lands, bringing day.

AUSABLE PONDS, 1889

THE GRACE OF GOD

'My grace is sufficient for thee'

'MID my life's vicissitude,
Seeming evil mixed with good ;
'Mid its pleasure and its pain,
Alternating loss and gain, —
Be thou still my staff and rod,
All-sustaining grace of God !

Like a pilgrim here I pass,
Darkly see as through a glass ;
Little know I of the way,
What shall be I cannot say, —
Let thy light upon me shine,
All-sufficient grace divine !

'Mid my ever-changing mood
God who changeth not is good ;
And his word within I have,
He will guard the life he gave, —
Sing, my soul, along thy road,
Happy in the grace of God.

IN LITTLES

A LITTLE House of Life,
With many noises rife,
    Noises of joy and crime ;
A little gate of birth
Through which I slipped to Earth
    And found myself in Time.

And there, not far before,
Another little door,
    One day to swing so free !
None pauses there to knock,
No other hand tries lock, —
    It knows, and waits for me.

From out what Silent Land
I came, on Earth to stand
    And learn life's little art,
Is not in me to say :
I know I did not stray, —
    Was sent ; to come, my part.

And down what Silent Shore
Beyond yon little door
    I pass, I cannot tell ;
I know I shall not stray,
Nor ever lose the way, —
    Am sent ; and all is well.

1891

WITH SELF DISSATISFIED

Not when, with self dissatisfied,
O Lord, I lowly lie,
So much I need thy grace to guide,
And thy reprovng eye, —

As when the sound of human praise
Grows pleasant to my ear,
And in its light my broken ways
Fair and complete appear.

By failure and defeat made wise,
We come to know at length
What strength within our weakness lies,
What weakness in our strength :

What inward peace is born of strife,
What power, of being spent ;
What wings unto our upward life
Is noble discontent.

O Lord, we need thy shaming look
That burns all low desire ;
The discipline of thy rebuke
Shall be refining fire !

BEHIND AND BEFORE

'ONE thing I do; the things behind forgetting

And reaching forward to the things before,
Unto the goal, the prize of God's high calling, Onward I press,' — said that great soul of yore.

And in the heart, like strains of martial
music,

Echo the words of courage, trust, and cheer,

The while we stand, half hoping, half regretting,

Between the coming and the parting year.

Behind are joys, fond hopes that found fulfilment,

Sweet fellowships, glad toil of hand and brain.

Unanswered prayers, burdens of loss and sorrow,
Faces that look no more in ours again.

Before us lie the hills, sunlit with promise,
Fairer fulfilments than the past could know,
New growths of soul, new leadings of the Spirit,
And all the glad surprises God will show.

All we have done, or nobly failed in doing,
All we have been, or bravely striven to be,
Makes for our gain, within us still surviving
As power and larger possibility.

All, all shall count; the mingled joy and sorrow
To force of finer being rise at last :
From the crude ores in trial's furnace smelted
The image of the perfect life is cast.

'Onward I press, the things behind forgetting
And reaching forward to the things before :'

Ring the brave words like strains of martial
music

As we pass through the New Year's opened door.

‘THINK ON THESE THINGS’

‘Whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honorable, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things.’

WHATSOEVER is just and pure,
Think on these things, my soul!
Earth shall vanish, but these endure,
Think on these things, my soul!
When all else shall fail thee,
These shall still avail thee;
Think on these things, strive for these things,
Cherish these things, my soul!

Truth and honor, they call to thee,
Think on these things, my soul!
What of virtue and praise there be,
Think on these things, my soul!

These have been the glory
Of all human story ;
Think on these things, strive for these things,
Cherish these things, my soul !

Faithful spirits before have gone,
Think on these things, my soul !
Grand thy heritage, hero-won,
Think on these things, my soul !
From all brave endeavor
Springeth good forever ;
Think on these things, strive for these things,
Cherish these things, my soul !

Music : 'Gospel Hymns,' No. 282

THE CROSS ON THE FLAG

FROM age to age they gather, all the brave
of heart and strong,
In the strife of truth with error, of the right
against the wrong ;
I can see their gleaming banner, I can hear their triumph-song :
The Truth is marching on !

' In this sign we conquer ; ' 't is the symbol of our faith,
Made holy by the might of love triumphant over death ;
He finds his life who loseth it, forevermore
it saith :
The Right is marching on !

The earth is circling onward out of shadow into light ;
The stars keep watch above our way, however dark the night ;

For every martyr's stripe there glows a bar
of morning bright :

And Love is marching on !

Lead on, O cross of martyr-faith, with thee is victory !

Shine forth, O stars and reddening dawn,
the full day yet shall be !

On earth his kingdom cometh, and with joy
our eyes shall see :

Our God is marching on !

For S. S. H., DECORAH, IA., 1891

FROM GENERATION TO GENERA-TION

O LIGHT, from age to age the same,
Forever living Word, —
Here have we felt thy kindling flame,
Thy voice within have heard.

Here holy thought and hymn and prayer
Have winged the spirit's powers,
And made these walls divinely fair, —
Thy temple, Lord, and ours.

What visions rise above the years,
What tender memories throng,
Till the eye fills with happy tears,
The heart with grateful song!

Vanish the mists of time and sense ;
They come, the loved of yore,
And one encircling Providence
Holds all for evermore.

O, not in vain their toil who wrought
To build faith's freer shrine, —
Nor theirs whose steadfast love and thought
Have watched the fire divine.

Burn, holy fire, and shine more wide !
While systems rise and fall,
Faith, hope, and charity abide,
The heart and soul of all.

QUINCY, ILL. : Fiftieth Anniversary, 1890

HOLY PLACES

WHERE men on mounts of vision
Have passed the veil within,
Where hearts bowed in contrition
Have risen from their sin,
Where light on upturned faces
Earth's Calvaries has crowned, --
Here are her holy places,
This, consecrated ground.

Where life is nobly given
And man for man has died,
Where bonds of wrong are riven
And right is glorified, --
One faith the spirit traces,
Brightening from age to age ;
These are earth's holy places
And shrines of pilgrimage.

Here, Lord, may thy revealing
    In waiting hearts be known,
Here holier thought and feeling
    The secret Presence own :
May prayer and aspiration,
    In-shinings of thy grace,
And sorrow's consolation
    Make this our holy place !

Still from the spirit's essence
    All things new meaning win ;
The temple of thy presence
    Is ever, Lord, within.
May outward dedication
    Have inward seal and sign,
The spirit's consecration
    Make beautiful the shrine !

For C. W. W., OAKLAND, CAL., 1891

THE BUILDING OF THE TEMPLE

THE CORNER-STONE

HE laid his rocks in courses,
His forest crowned the hill,
He yoked the ancient forces
And lent them to our will ;
The heart he woke to duty,
He graced the builder's thought,—
He gave Creation beauty,
And he the Temple wrought !

Now, Father, build within us
The Temple's counterpart,
Deep laid in holy purpose,
Fair colored of the heart ;
Its windows heaven-lighted,
Peace and Good-will its plan,
Its towers our Faith and Worship,
Its doors the Love of Man !

THE DEDICATION

To cloisters of the spirit
    These aisles of quiet lead :
Here may the vision gladden,
    The voice within us plead !
And may the dear All-Father,
    Who maketh trouble cease,
Here send his two, the blessed,
    His angels Shame and Peace !

Here be no man a stranger ;
    No holy cause be banned ;
No good for one be counted
    Not good for all the land !
And here for prophet voices
    The message never fail, —
' God reigns ! His Truth shall conquer.
    And Right and Love prevail ! '

THE WORD OF GOD

It sounds along the ages,
Soul answering to soul ;
It kindles on the pages
Of every Bible scroll ;
The psalmists heard and sang it,
From martyr-lips it broke,
And prophet-tongues outrang it
Till sleeping nations woke.

From Sinai's cliffs it echoed,
It breathed from Buddha's tree,
It charmed in Athens' market,
It gladdened Galilee ;
The hammer-stroke of Luther,
The Pilgrims' sea-side prayer,
The oracles of Concord,
One holy Word declare.

It dates each new ideal, —
Itself it knows not time;
Man's laws but catch the music
Of its eternal chime.
It calls — and lo, new Justice!
It speaks — and lo, new Truth!
In ever nobler stature
And unexhausted youth.

It everywhere arriveth;
Recks not of small and great;
It shapes the unborn atom,
It tells the sun its fate.
The wing-beat of archangel
Its boundary never nears:
Forever on it soundeth
The music of the spheres!

UNTO HIM ALL LIVE

O LORD of Life, where'er they be,
Safe in thine own eternity,
Our dead are living unto thee.

All souls are thine and, here or there,
They rest within thy sheltering care;
One providence alike they share.

Thy word is true, thy ways are just;
Above the requiem 'dust to dust'
Shall rise our psalm of grateful trust.

O happy they in God who rest,
No more by fear and doubt oppressed;
Living or dying they are blest.

Alleluia!

EASTER MORN

ON eyes that watch through sorrow's night,
On aching hearts and worn,
Rise thou with healing in thy light,
O happy Easter morn!

The dead earth wakes beneath thy rays,
The tender grasses spring;
The woods put on their robes of praise,
And flowers are blossoming.

O shine within the spirit's skies,
Till, in thy kindling glow,
From out the buried memories
Immortal hopes shall grow:

Till from the seed oft sown in grief,
And wet with bitter tears,
Our faith shall bind the harvest sheaf
Of the eternal years!

RISEN

THEY came, bringing spices, at break of the day

With hearts heavy-laden and sore,
And, lo, from the tomb was the stone rolled away,

An angel sat there by the door !
'Why seek ye the living 'mid emblems of death?
Not here, he is risen,' the shining one saith.

O type through the ages and symbol of faith,
Whose spirit is true evermore :
The hearts we have cherished we lose not in
death,

The grave over love hath no power.
There sitteth the angel, there speaketh the word, —
'Not here, they are risen,' in silence is heard.

O ye who still watch in the valley of tears
And wait for the night to go by,
Lift, lift up your eyes, on the mountains appears

The day-spring of God from on high !
He turneth the shadows of night into day, —
'Not here, they are risen,' his shining ones say.

SANTA BARBARA, 1894

WHAT WILL THE VIOLETS BE?

S. A. M.

WHAT will the violets be
There in the Spring of springs?
What will the bird-song be
Where the very tree-bough sings?
What will their Easter be
Where never are dead to mourn,
But brightly the faces ask,
'O, when will the rest be born?'

Brighter the Easter shines
On the faces here below,
That they are behind the flowers,
The heart of the living glow.
Beautiful secret, wait!
A morrow or two, and we Shall know in the Spring of springs
What the violets will be.

OVER THE LAND IN GLORY

OVER the land in glory
Breaketh the Easter morn :
Nature repeateth her story, —
Life out of death new-born !
Lo, the year 's at the Spring,
Buds are blossoming,
Earth and heavens sing :
Life is life forever, evermore !

Listen, the birds are singing,
Softly the south winds play ;
Bells in the steeples ringing
Welcome the festal day :
And the message they bear
On the radiant air
Chides sorrow and fear :
Life is life forever, evermore !

Skies of the spirit brighten,
Hopes like the birds return :
Hearts with the promise lighten, —
    ‘ Blessed are they that mourn.’
To each winter a Spring
God will surely bring,
    And the heart shall sing :
    Life is life forever, evermore !

Music: ‘ King’s-Chapel Carols,’ No. 49. 1890

EASTER FESTIVAL

Lo, the Day of days is here,
Earth puts on her robes of cheer :
Day of hope and prophecy,
Feast of Immortality !
Fields are smiling in the sun,
Loosened streamlets seaward run,
Tender blade and leaf appear,
'T is the Springtide of the year !
    Day of hope and prophecy,
    Feast of Immortality !

Lo, the Day of days is here,
Hearts, awake and sing with cheer !
He who robes his earth anew
Careth for his children too.
They who look to him in faith
Triumph over fear and death ;
Speaks the angel by the door
' They are risen ' evermore.

Day of hope and prophecy,
Feast of Immortality!

Lo, the Day of days is here,
Music thrills the atmosphere.
Join, ye people all, and sing
Love and praise and thanksgiving!
Rocky steep or flowery mead,
One the Shepherd that doth lead;
One the hope within us born,
One the joy of Easter morn!
Day of hope and prophecy,
Feast of Immortality!

Music: 'King's-Chapel Carols,' No. 4. 1890

DISCIPLESHIP

ON the Judæan hills

    Would I have seen the light
The watching shepherds saw,
    Turning to noon the night?

Would I have seen the star
    That new in heaven shone,
And followed with the few
    The new-born Christ to own?

And if mine ears had heard

    The Man of Galilee
Speaking from heart aflame
    The Truth that maketh free,
Turning from priest and scribe,
    Dead rite and parchment roll, —
Would I have hailed in him
    A Prophet of the Soul?

Those words upon the mount,
By way-sides, in the town, —
Unwelcome to his time,
Now Holy Scripture grown, —
Would I have read in them
A message from on high,
Or joined the multitude
Who cried out Crucify?

Ah, vain for you or me
To question thus the Past!
Not then but now for us
The fateful choice is cast;
Ever the larger faith
Makes way 'mid doubt and scorn,
And in its latest word
Anew the Christ is born.

The true disciples they,
The wide earth o'er, who own
Truth in her manger low,
Ere yet she mounts the throne:
Who from the dead Christ's tomb
Take not the stones to slay
In blinded fear and rage
The living Christ to-day.

They hear the angels' song,
    'T is they who see the light
The watching shepherds saw
    Making the heavens bright:
They see the self-same star
    O'er Bethlehem that shone,
And follow joyful forth
    The new-born Christ to own.

THE MAN OF NAZARETH

‘A CLOUD received him out of sight,’ —
Even so; and then men knew no more
The human presence warm and bright,
As he had walked the earth before;

The preacher of the mountain-side,
Teaching the kingdom's reign within,
Strong in rebuke of hardened pride,
Yet pitiful of conscious sin:

But sceptered now, and throned afar,
They watched in dread his swift return,
To see before his judgment bar
The earth dissolve and heavens burn.

The gathered clouds of centuries lift;
No king in wrath descends to reign,
Yet king-like through the shining rift
The Man of Nazareth comes again.

O Friend and Brother, draw more near
The while thy festival we keep;
Diviner shall our lives appear
Held fast in thy high fellowship.

MARY'S MANGER-SONG

SLEEP, my little Jesus,
On thy bed of hay,
While the shepherds homeward
Journey on their way!
Mother is thy shepherd
And will vigil keep:
O, did the angels wake thee?
Sleep, my Jesus, sleep!

Sleep, my little Jesus,
While thou art my own!
Ox and ass thy neighbors, —
Shalt thou have a throne?
Will they call me blessed?
Shall I stand and weep?
O, be it far, Jehovah!
Sleep, my Jesus, sleep!

Sleep, my little Jesus,
    Wonder-baby mine!
Well the singing angels
    Greet thee as divine.
Through my heart, as heaven,
    Low the echoes sweep
Of Glory to Jehovah!
    Sleep, my Jesus, sleep!

WHITTIER

No thrush at eve had ever sweeter song
Than thine whose voice no more on earth
    we hear ;
Nor winds and flowing streams more please
    the ear,
Nor to the speech of Nature more belong.
And yet thy heart beat ever with the throng
Of toil ; the lowliest life thou didst revere
And the wide law of brotherhood hold dear,
Most mindful still of all who suffered wrong.

Best loved of all the choir we loved so well,
'T was thine to bring again the Master near,
And hymn to men the Goodness without end :
Psalmist we call thee of our Israel,
Child of the Spirit, poet, prophet, seer, —
And to us all, of every name, the Friend !

WHITTIER

A RUGGED rock is the mountain,
Rock from the base to crown ;
But the mountain glens and valleys,
Where the brooks come leaping down,
Are gardens of tender, ferny things,
Sweet tangles of green and brown.

Like the mountain stood our poet !
Strength of the hills was he,
In the quiet sky uplifted,
A moveless sanctity ;
And the listening lands heard thunders roll
Of his Sinai prophecy.

But the brooks in his heart were singing,
Singing all night and day,
And rhymes like the mosses nestled
Over the ledges gray,
And a poet's radiant world of flowers
Out-bloomed from the Yea and Nay.

‘NOTHING BUT A POET’

‘He sat and talked of his own early life and aspirations; how he marvelled, as he looked back, at the audacious obstinacy which had made him, when a youth, determine to be a poet and nothing but a poet.’ — EDMUND GOSSE ON ROBERT BROWNING.

‘NOTHING but a poet!’ So he said, and wondered
At the sole persistence of his years.
Laughing world, you ’ll know it, now that,
silence-sundered,
He is in the welcome of his peers.

What said Milton to him, what said Keats and Shakespeare?
O, to see the smile on Dante’s face!
Catch the great Greek χαίρε, hear the ‘bronze throat’ hail him,
‘Browning’s come among us, — give him place!’

'Nothing but a poet,' singing songs of soul-
growth,

Splendor in the pain-throb, rise in fall,

'Saul the failure' in us re-creating kingly, —

Songs one surge of morning! That was all!

Browning Commemoration, 1890

REMBRANDT

Suggested by the portrait of his mother in the Hermitage, St. Petersburg.

GAZING upon that face where years have wrought

The record of their mingled loss and gain,
Where Love and Death, alternate joy and pain,

Have the hid soul to such expression
brought, —

Life fills with vaster meaning to my thought.
'Neath change and loss I read what things remain

To crown at last the struggle and the strain
Of all our days, remembered or forgot.

O mighty Master! Shakespeare of the brush!
Interpreting to eye, as he to ear,

The story of earth's passion and its strife, —
Thy genius caught the new day's morning flush,
Saw glory in the common and the near,
And on immortal canvas gave us LIFE!

THE SOWER

'A sower went forth to sow.'

ALONG the pathless prairie
The tread of human feet, —
Up rise the smoke-plumed cabins
Mid springing corn and wheat.
Where, like a lonely ocean,
The wind-swept grasses swung,
The golden sheaves are gathered,
The harvest song is sung.

In vigil of the spirit
A young-eyed listener heard, —
'Go forth among thy fellows,
Thy seed the living Word!
By springs of joy and sorrow,
In fields of toil and care,
Through deserts of temptation,
Broadcast thy faith and prayer.'

From year to year the prairie
Has waved with ripened grain,
Borne on the tides of traffic
Wide over land and main.
But who shall mart the harvest
Of nobler thought and deed,
Of holier faith and purpose,
Sprung from the sower's seed ?

O brave and faithful sower,
Not thine on earth to bind
The full sheaves of thy harvest,
The growths of heart and mind :
Outspreads in widening circles
The life-embodied Word,
And they shall bear thee witness
Thy voice who never heard.

The people cease from labor,
The children leave their play ;
All bring thee love and honor
To crown thy festal day.

The heavens glow in beauty
Lit by the westering sun,
And God's far stars shall guide thee
When the long day is done.

Chester Covell, Seventieth birthday, 1887

JOHN C. LEARNED

THY work abides, though thou hast passed from sight :

Unconsciously hast thou thy monument
From year to year built fair and permanent
In lives to which thine own was cheer and light.

Wisdom and meekness clothed thee with their might ;

In thee the sage and saint were equal blent ;
Strength, courage, tenderness dwelt in thy tent,

Thou soldier of the everlasting Right !

By so much as we mourn thee, we rejoice
That we have known thee in these earthly ways,

And with thee striven for the things unseen :
Still in our silences will speak thy voice
And thy dear memory inspire our days,
Till we too pass the veil that hangs between.

‘ INCARNATE CHEER ’

‘ Have n’t I a right to be grave, too, sometimes ? ’

J. Ll. J.

No rights of gravity to thee, dear friend !
We need one face about our world to mend
Heart’s hurt and set jarred minds in tune,
And sure to do this as the blessed June ;
One voice whose bell shall ring away all fear ;
One hand in which we grasp ‘ incarnate
    cheer ; ’
One steadfast smile rayed out from eyes alight,
To make men say, ‘ He ’s come ! now all is right ! ’

To J. Ll. J. on his birthday, 1887

THIRTY THOUSAND

'THIRTY thousand!' said the Fate,
Mixer of the days to be,
As she passed the mystic gate, —
Little Quaker baby, she!

Thirty thousand days and nights —
This the dower with which she came:
All their sounds and all their sights
Vested in the tiny dame.

'Thirty thousand,' said the Fate;
But who draw the royal breath
Into deeds the days translate,
Dainty Queen Elizabeth!

Price is high for royal dowers;
Thee must earn thy golden state!
Spendthrift gods fling out the hours,
Miser gods keep count and weight.

---

Day and night and night and day,
One by one the thousands flee:
Lady of the Yea and Nay,
Thou hast earned thy queenerie !

Earned it as a noble should,
Dauntless, tireless, gentle-strong ;
Giving Yea to every good,
Daring Nay to every wrong.

Not in calendars thy fame,
But secrete in happy prayer ;
Lips have blessed thee — not by name —
Thanking God for ' daily care.'

Thou dost leave a sweeter earth,
Less of poison, less of fen,
By thy precedent of worth
Stablished in the world's Amen.

Thou art part of all uplift !
One tint brighter rises morn
Henceforth ever, — this thy gift
Wheresoe'er a child is born.

To E. B. C., on her eightieth birthday, 1886

GOLDEN WEDDING

WHAT do you see, dear hill-top pair,
Side by side in the quiet there,
Looking down through the golden air
On the days of long ago?

Sounds of the valley's push and throng,
Din of its labor and cries of its wrong, —
Do they rise and blend to an evening song,
As you stand and listen so?

Is the valley filling with shadows dim?
Do the hills grow bright on the eastern rim,
The hills where you played so free of limb,
In the days of long ago?

Tell us your secrets, our two-in-one!
Do fifty years of the rising sun
Draw love the closer for each year run, —
Will you whisper, you who know?

Beautiful secrets that none can tell
Till sunsets chant and the roses spell, —
As they do for twos! as two knew well
    In the days of long ago.

But say, O lover by love long taught,
Why, under the gray the years have brought,
She stands as a maiden to our thought,
    And a rose that waits to blow.

Tell us the secret of home-spun ways,
Of spinning-wheel hours in city days,
Clean and calm as a Quaker phrase
    Of the simple long ago.

Tell what you see on the farther side,
Where the new horizons open wide,
And you hear the step of a coming Guide
    The way of the hills to show.

Out of the quiet that holds you there
There seems to float through the golden air,
Like the brooding music after prayer
    Or a song of long ago : —

‘Little we see ; but hand in hand
Fearless we turn to the still, new land,
Fearless to go as here to stand ;
For this in our hearts we know, —

‘Wherever we go, Love goeth too ;
Whatever may pass, Love lasteth through ;
And Love shall be sweet and dear and true
As in days of long ago.’

For J. D. and M. D. : 1836-1886

TWILIGHT

THE sunset glow is ebbing ;
    Within the rose-rimmed sky
The stars wait wide and lonely
    The slow day's passing by.

The evening dusks the valleys;
    The hill-tops yet are lit ;
The shadow broadens upward,
    And the quiet climbs with it.

All that the day dissevers
    Now, in the twilight dun,
Nestles again together, —
    The far and the near are one.

---

Within her cloistered chamber
    Brooded the evening peace,
As the dear life faded slowly,
    Too happy to wish release.

In the widening hush she waited,
In the beautiful after-glow,
The hills of her memory gleaming,
The shadows climbing below.

The holy twilight falling
Was not of the star and sun ;
The earth and the heaven lights mingled, —
And the far and near were one.

‘DEATH AS FRIEND’

After a picture by Alfred Rethel

So still !

The little bird sits on the window-sill ;
The sun behind him is sinking slow ;
Down below in the city streets
The people are going to and fro, —
Going home, for their work is done.

‘Tong! Tong!’

It is vesper-hour,
And soft strong booms
Steal out from the great cathedral tower
Over the house-tops, over the plain,
Out towards the sun :
‘Tong! Tong!’
Go home, for work is done!’

The old bell-ringer,
He, too, is so still !
Fifty years, at the vesper hour,
He has rung the bell in his eyrie tower ;

A dweller there with the birds in the sky,
In the fields of quiet that overlie
The toil of cities, — ringing 'Peace!
Go home, for work is done!'

There, alone,
Where the undertone
Of the city toil moans up to him,
He has done his part in the busy day,
Ringing the pauses for men to pray, —
Simply, faithfully, fifty years;
Ever, in heart, at his oaken board
Breaking his bread with the crucified Lord,
In whose great name
The bells proclaim
'Peace! go home, for work is done!'

One by one
The strokes sound on.
He sits in the chair by the window-sill:
The little bird wonders at him so still,
So still in the fingers, so still in the face!
'What ails the ringer?' the people say,
'The vesper-bell rings long to-day:
We have all gone home,
And work is done.'

Low, low,
In the evening glow,
It tolls and tolls.

In the belfry stands a hooded shape,
With a palmer's shell on his shoulder-cape,
As one who goeth from place to place:
He grasps the rope with a bony hand,
Bending with a tender grace
To each rhythm of sweeping sound.
With a noiseless foot he has climbed the stair,
And touched the old man sitting there,
Waiting for the vesper-hour, and said,
'To-night I ring for you, old friend:
Go home, for work is done!'

So still!

The little bird flies from the window-sill,
The sun has set, and down below
The people are saying, 'It never rang so,
Never before, so sweet and low!'

A. L. G.

1846

So early lost, I cannot tell the lift
Of mother-arms! A toy or two, her gift;
A small white gown, her needle in its seam;
And, dim as is a dream within a dream,
A little figure at a shadow's feet,
Or walking hand in hand upon the street, —
A gentle shadow with an unseen face, —
No smile, no tone, no foot-fall mine for trace:
That is my unknown Mother!

Yet I know
The inmost currents of my being flow
From her high springs; the faiths that in me rise
Have once made happy lights within her eyes;

The gardens of my heart are seeded thick
With border-blooms that first in hers were quick ;
My very thought of God is her bequest,
Sealed mine before I lay upon her breast !

O Mother, could an earthly smile suffice,
And these not serve me well to recognize ?
Inwrought and deathless tokens pledge us joy
What day my Mother meets her grateful boy !

ALMA MATER

FROM many ways and wide apart,
Obedient to thy call,
Hither we turn with loyal heart,
Dear Mother of us all!

We walk the well-known paths once more
Amid the summer's bloom;
We pass familiar thresholds o'er,
And breathe the air of home.

Nor we alone; they come unseen,
Unheard their footsteps fall;
Voices long hushed to earth within
The cloistered silence call.

O, more than gold has been the lore
We learned beside thy knee, —
The faith that grows from more to more,
The truth that maketh free;

The strength to do and to endure
Through good report and ill,
The heart of love, the conscience pure,
And the undaunted will.

Be proud, O Mother, of thy past!
It lives in thee to-day;
And still its high traditions cast
Their light upon thy way.

Our love and hope ring out their chime
Above thy festival;
Blessings upon thee through all time,
Thou who hast blessed us all!

THE VILLAGE MEETING-HOUSE

STILL stands the ancient meeting-house
    Upon the village-green,
And white above the circling trees
    The belfry tower is seen.

Uncolored through the simple panes
    The common sunlight pours ;
No Gothic arches spring above
    The latched and painted doors.

Their thresholds witness to the tread
    Of feet long since at rest
In yonder field of moss-grown slates
    With Bible-text impressed.

No more at rise and set of sun
    Is heard the numbered toll
That spoke to all the country round
    The passing of a soul :

Yet still with every new-born week,
Across the meadows fair
And over all the upland farms,
Sounds the old call to prayer.

I walked again the village street
By absence made more dear ;
That summer Sunday held the bloom
And fragrance of the year.

I followed with the worshippers
The ancient house within ;
For me with all I saw and heard
Was mingled what had been.

For memory had new-kindled love,
And love had quickened faith ;
I lived that hour within a world
That knew not change and death.

I minded not the preacher's theme,
Nor caught the words of prayer ;
My thought had passed within the veil
And walked with spirits there.

The faithful shepherd of the flock,
Whose years knew such increase,
Who led in wisdom's simple ways
And by the streams of peace ;

The wise and upright citizen,
To each good cause allied,
Who brightened more an honored name
Through all the country-side ;

And souls that well had borne their part,
And little children fair ; —
Their unforgotten faces gleamed
In the illumined air.

I love the minster's vaulted roof,
Its walls of old renown,
Where sculptured marbles voice the past
And windowed saints look down :

Nor less I feel our Hebrew strain,
Distrustful still of art,
That lifts to the Invisible
Immediate the heart.

For inward more than outward is,
The soul than any shrine ;
Alone our living love and trust
The altar make divine.

Long may the ancient meeting-house
Rise from the village-green,
And over all the country round
Its belfried tower be seen :

Still may the call to praise and prayer
Be heard each Sunday morn,
And bind in growing faith the past
With ages yet unborn !

NORTHBOROUGH, MASS.

THE DAYS

IN Father Time's old nursery
The little Morrows wait,
Each one impatient to be out,
Impatient to be great ;
On bravely through the sun to go,
On bravely through the showers,
A world to see, a Day to be !
The happy-hearted Hours !

So one by one he lets them out,
His Days so young and strong,
The morning shining in their face,
And on their lips a song.
When home they come, their work all done,
There 's quiet in their ways,
And shadows rise and haunt their eyes, —
They 're dear old Yesterdays !

And now we love them for the half
Of all that we hold dear, —
The echo-side of every word,
The far to every near ;
The sunset touch to every hope
That fades along our skies,
The after-dream, the vanished gleam,
The love in long-shut eyes.

ROCHESTER : ' Fiftieth Anniversary,' 1892

THE OLD LOVE-SONG

PLAY it slowly, sing it lowly,
Old, familiar tune !
Once it ran in dance and dimple,
Like a brook in June ;
Now it sobs along the measures
With a sound of tears ;
Dear old voices echo through it,
Vanished with the years.

Ripple, ripple, goes the love-song,
Till in slowing time
Early sweetness grows completeness,
Floods its every rhyme.
Who together learn the music
Life and death unfold,
Know that love is but beginning
Until love is old.

Play it slowly, — it is holy
As an evening hymn ;
Morning gladness hushed to sadness
Fills it to the brim.
Memories home within the music,
Stealing through the bars ;
Thoughts within its quiet spaces
Rise and set like stars.

THE DEAR TOGETHERNESS

I DREAMED of Paradise, — and still,
Though sun lay soft on vale and hill
And trees were green and rivers bright,
The one dear thing that made delight
    By sun or stars or Eden weather,
    Was just that we two were together.

I dreamed of Heaven, — with God so near!
The angels trod the shining sphere,
And each was beautiful; the days
Were choral work, were choral praise:
    And yet in Heaven's far-shining weather
    The best was still, — we were together!

I woke, — and lo, my dream was true,
That happy dream of me and you!
For Eden, Heaven, no need to roam, —
The foretaste of it all is Home,
    Where you and I through this world's weather
    Still work and praise and thank together.

Together weave from love a nest
For all that's good and sweet and blest
To brood in, till it come a face,
A voice, a soul, a child's embrace, —
    And then what peace of Bethlehem weather,
    What songs as we go on together !

Together greet life's solemn real,
Together own one glad ideal,
Together laugh, together ache,
And think one thought, 'each other's sake,'
    And hope one hope, — in new-world weather
    To still go on, and go together !

Home Dedication, 1891

HERO BY BREVET

I SAW a veteran to-day,
With hobbling foot and staff to stay,
In slow march by the window stray.

‘What rank?’ There was no epaulet, —
Some humble rank that privates get:
The face said, Hero by brevet.

‘What regiment?’ I only know
They take the front where’er they go,
As that were badge enough to show.

‘No colors?’ None that I could see, —
A few gray locks were waving free,
Like shot-torn banners greeting me.

‘In service where?’ How could I guess?
No boast of battles marred the dress,
But eyes were full of field-success.

‘ No scars or maim, no empty sleeve ? ’
Only the smile that sufferings leave
And weary days and nights achieve.

‘ And all alone, — no comrade-brother ? ’
Alone, yet loved beyond all other.

‘ By whom ? ’ By men who call her — Mother !

NURSERY LOGIC

THERE in the nursery stood the case,
Old and battered and brown with age, —
Dear Aunt Ann's with the saintly face, —
Till one of our toddlers, in cherubic rage,
Chanced on a spring and a drawer flew wide,
And lo, a plain gold ring inside !

Wee Aunt Ann with the mystic smile,
That was the secret thy eyes held fast !
Did they learn their smile in the long-ago while
When the wooers came and the wooers passed,
And not one dreamed that a drawer flew
wide,
A drawer with a plain gold ring inside ?

Nobody guessed from then till now,
 Little maid-aunt, thy secret sweet !
 Then nobody shall, but he and thou,
 Long in the heaven where old loves meet.
 But — knows he yet that a drawer flew wide
 To show his plain gold ring inside ?

So we all agreed, the children and I,
 Dropping again the ring in its place,
 Never to spy what lives so shy
 There in the heart of the old brown case.
 But the children say, ‘ If a drawer flew
 wide, —
 There ’s a dear little uncle and aunt inside ! ’

Who? is his name. O, they know well, —
 Have christened him, wedded him now for true !
 But that is her secret, and they won’t tell ;
 Sō it ’s just ‘ Aunt Ann and Uncle Who? ’
 And (bless their logic !) they hear, inside,
 Three little dream-cousins who laugh and hide.

Cousins real to the poets small,
    Brooding the dream, as they themselves;
Christened and characterized, each and all,
    Discrete, insular, untwinned elves !
Poets — or prophets ? Should heaven ope
    wide,
Whose are the children at Aunt Ann's side ?

1888

HOW LITTLE JO NAMED THE BABY

HE stood beside the cradle,
A tender-brooding care,
Watching with love-illuminated eyes
The baby brother there.

He stood beside the cradle,
While busily without
The mother plied her morning work
The happy home about.

Three moons had bloomed and faded
Since 'Baby' earthward came,
Nor yet with seeking far or near
Was found a fitting name.

Anon the door was opened, —
The mother paused and smiled,
As, face all tremulous with joy,
Up spake the little child :

‘ Mamma, I ’ve named the baby ! ’
‘ You have ? What is it, Jo ? ’
‘ I ’m going to call him God, Mamma,
That ’s the best name I know. ’

O depth of heavenly wisdom
Alone to love unsealed, —
Hid from the wise and prudent ones
And unto babes revealed !

Wee prophet of the Highest,
Who touched thy little tongue
To speak so clear the holiest thought
That e’er was said or sung ?

The preaching of the pulpit
Seems vague and far away,
Beside thy bolder faith that sees
‘ Immanuel ’ to-day.

Ah, well if in each other,
As through the world we go,
We saw what in that babe was seen
And named by little Jo!

IN THE ALBULA PASS.

To right, to left, the mountain wall —
Above, the narrow strip of sky ;
And at my feet the Albula stream
With youth's impatience rushes by.

The air comes cool from snowy heights
And tonic with the breath of pine ;
Around me like a glory spread
The flowers in rainbow beauty shine.

I leave the cares that weighed me down,
The heat and burden of the plain ;
I feel the strengthening of the hills
And drink the wine of youth again.

Why thus in haste, bright mountain stream,
To leave these haunts, so fair to me,
Full soon to find the dusty plain,
Too soon the all-engulfing sea ?

There comes a voice, — the streams can speak! —

‘ Fair is my home and youth is free,
And glad my days, yet will I go
On to the plain, the unknown sea!

‘ For life is motion and not rest,
Nor fear I what at last shall be;
The Hand that raised these mountain heights
Has scooped the hollows of the sea!’

I turn me from the happy stream,
All bright the years before me lie;
The mountains sink as up I climb,
And nearer grows the widening sky.

CANTON GRISONS, July, 1888

CORONADO BEACH

THE air is tonic with the salty breath
Of coursing billows that at last are free ;
Sounds low and sweet old Ocean's symphony,
Whose thought the varying heart inter-preteth.

With upturned face and folded palms in death

Lies Corpus Christi in mute effigy ;
Point Loma, sphinx-like, gazes o'er the sea
Nor heeds the questioning wave that breaks beneath.

Along the shore the solemn mountains keep
Their immemorial watch ; in yonder town,
Sheltered between them and the curving deep,

Unheard the tides of life move up and down.
O peace of Nature ! here my burdens fall,
I rest upon the mighty Heart of all !

SAN DIEGO, February, 1894

DOVER

MOUSE-HOLE in December,
Quiet little Dover!
What shall I remember,
Now the days are over?

Snow in hushes falling;
Blue days creeping by;
Trees in still processions
Etched upon the sky;
And a silent village
Where the gray stones lean,
Whispering of a Dover
They alone have seen.

All I shall remember,
Now the days are over, —
Mouse-hole in December,
Quiet little Dover!

---

When I shall be lying
With a gray stone over,
Will this great World dim to
Just a little Dover?

DOVER, MASS., 1886

WE SEE AS WE ARE

THE poem hangs on the berry-bush,
When comes the poet's eye ;
The street begins to masquerade,
When Shakespeare passes by.

The Christ sees white in Judas' heart,
He loves his traitor well ;
And God, to angel his new Heaven,
Explores his lowest Hell.

TREE-SURPRISE

THERE 's a rapture in the air,
Thrilling all the branches bare
With the musical vibrations of an unheard
tune ;
Silent trees in winter trance
Feel a something in them dance, —
Then a leaf and bud commotion, and a world one June !

There 's a trouble in the air,
And a fog of white despair ;
Stiff and black the trees are standing, — are they dead, all dead ?
In an hour I lift my eyes,
And, behold ! a tree-surprise, —
Every twig is flashing crystal from the white gloom bred !

Unheard music in the air,
Is it rapture or despair
In my tree of life the Hands will play for this day's tune?
But why ask it or why care,
With that gloom-born beauty there,
And the Hands to play December that shall yet play June?

A DAY IN OCTOBER

I LEAVE behind the crowded street,
The city's noise and stir,
And face to face with Nature meet, —
Her happy worshipper.

I walk the unfrequented road
With open eye and ear;
I watch afield the farmer load
The bounty of the year.

I filch the fruit of no man's toil,
No trespasser am I,
And yet I reap from every soil
And the unmeasured sky.

I gather where I did not sow,
And bind in mystic sheaf
The amber air, the river's flow,
The rustle of the leaf, —

The squirrels' chatter in the trees,
The sunlight sifted down,
The wholesome odors on the breeze
O'er ripened harvests blown, —

The hills in distance purple-hued,
The tinkling waterfall,
The 'deep contentment of the wood,'
The peace o'erbrooding all.

The maples glow beside the streams
And fleck the pastures sear,
Like smiles that break from happy dreams, —
So smiles the waning year!

A beauty springtime never knew
Haunts all the quiet ways,
And sweeter shines the landscape through
Its veil of autumn haze.

The blessing of the early rain
And all the summer's shine
Are garnered in the golden grain
And purple of the vine.

What though the groves are silent all,
No bird within them sings,
Nor on the quiet meadows fall
Shadows from sunlit wings :

Yet is their summer music part
Of the still atmosphere, —
So Nature keeps by subtle art
To sight what pleased the ear.

And all my separate senses seem
To be but passive keys,
Whereon she plays her world-old theme
To wondrous harmonies.

I face the hills, the streams, the wood,
And feel with all akin ;
I ope my heart, — their fortitude
And peace and joy flow in.

Like him of old on Horeb's mount
I take again my way,
New-strengthened from the healing fount
Of this October day.

THE UNCREATED LAW

STILL loom the Sinais, rugged, grand,
With lightning-flash and thunder,
Awakening the slumberous land
To mingled dread and wonder.
The uncreated Law
Men own, and stand in awe;
'Thou shalt' and 'thou shalt not'
Self-will can ne'er out-blot:
That Law stands fast forever!

It flameth in the spirit's sky,
To every soul appealeth;
It holds the keys of destiny,
The nations' doom it sealeth.
It casteth down the proud,
Uplifts the poor and bowed;
O'erwhelms the wrong in night,
With victory crowns the right:
And it shall rule forever!

Though clothed with terror to our sin,
That Law is our salvation ;
It hurts to heal, it warns to win,
Each erring soul and nation.
    Behind it is a Face
    All tenderness and grace ;
    Let every soul obey,
    Ye lands, prepare the way ;
On earth God's kingdom cometh !

Music : Luther's ' Ein' feste Burg.' 1911

THE PROPHECY SUBLIME

THY kingdom come, O Lord,
Wide-circling as the sun;
Fulfil of old thy word
And make the nations one:

One in the bond of peace,
The service glad and free
Of truth and righteousness,
Of love and equity.

Speed, speed the longed-for time
Foretold by raptured seers,—
The prophecy sublime,
The hope of all the years:

Till rise in ordered plan
On firm foundations broad
The commonwealth of man,
The City of our God!

HEAR, O YE NATIONS

HEAR, hear, O ye Nations, and hearing obey
The cry from the past and the call of to-day!
Earth wearies and wastes with her fresh life outpoured,
The glut of the cannon, the spoil of the sword.

Lo, dawns the new era, transcending the old,
The poet's rapt vision, by prophet foretold!
From war's grim tradition-it maketh appeal
To service of all in a world's commonweal.

Home, altar and school, the mill and the mart,
The workers afield, in science, in art,
Peace-circled and sheltered, shall join to create
The manifold life of the firm-built State.

Then, then shall the empire of right over wrong
Be shield to the weak and a curb to the strong ;
Then justice prevail and, the battle-flags
furled,
The High Court of Nations give law to the world.

And thou, O my Country, from many made one,
Last-born of the nations, at morning thy sun,
Arise to the place thou art given to fill,
And lead the world-triumph of peace and good-will !

National Peace Congress : CHICAGO, May, 1909

A PEOPLE BLEST OF GOD

UPLIFT the song of praise
To him, our fathers' God!
Who led them o'er the watery ways
To lands untrod:
Seed of a race to be,
Upon his New-World shore;
The home of Law and Liberty
For evermore.

Lift high the song of praise,
O Nation grown in power!
Hold fast through good and evil days
Thy glorious dower:
The age-long hope fulfil,
New-quickened at thy birth;
Thy strength thy God, whose righteous will Rules heaven and earth.

Uplift the song of praise !
His love and wisdom own,
Who leadeth still in unseen ways
By paths unknown.
His purposes of old
And promises endure,
And through the circling years unfold,
Forever sure.

Lift high the song of praise
And bless his holy Name !
Whose care above the passing days
Abides the same :
Our fathers' confidence
Through all their pilgrimage ;
Our dwelling-place and our defence
From age to age.

Music : 'Yigdal' ('Leoni') 1911

THE UNDERTONE

FROM old to new, with broadening sweep,
The stream of life moves on ;
And still its changing currents keep
A changeless undertone.

In prophet word and martyr faith,
Vision of saint and seer,
The poet's song, the hero's death,—
That undertone we hear.

A sense we have of things unseen
Transcending things of time ;
We catch, earth's broken chords between,
The everlasting chime :

And light breaks through the rifted haze
In shining vistas broad ;
We travel the eternal ways,
Held by the hand of God.

‘THE GOODLY FELLOWSHIP OF THE PROPHETS’

FROM age to age how grandly rise
The prophet souls in line!
Above the passing centuries
Like beacon-lights they shine.

Through differing accents of the lip
One message they proclaim,
One growing bond of fellowship,
Above all names one Name.

They witness to one heritage,
One Spirit’s quickening breath,
One widening reign, from age to age,
Of freedom and of faith.

Their kindling power our souls confess;
Though dead, they speak to-day:
How great the cloud of witnesses
Encompassing our way!

Through every race, in every clime,
One song shall yet be heard:
Move onward in thy course sublime,
O everlasting Word!

F. R. A. Festival, 1899

OUR HIDDEN PEACE

WHEN shadows gather on our way,
Fast deepening as the night,
Be thou, O God, the spirit's stay,
Our inward Light!

Amid the outward toil and strife,
The world's dull roar and din,
Still speak thy word of higher life,
Thou Voice within!

When burdens sore upon us press,
And vexing cares increase,
Spring thou, a fount of quietness,
Our hidden Peace!

Though fond hopes fail, and joy depart,
And friends should faithless prove,
O save us from the bitter heart,
Indwelling Love!

THRICE FIFTY YEARS

HERE where our fathers built of old,
Rough-hewn, their simple house of prayer,
We meet to-day, a grateful fold,
Of these thrice fifty years the heir.

Through time and change, through birth and death,
The stream of being ceaseless runs ;
One hidden life of love and faith
Binds through all change the sires and sons.

Their record lives in all around,
Lives in our ampler thought and hope ;
Through them the earth is fairer ground,
And life for us hath larger scope.

O Thou who workest all in all,
We bless thee for our heritage:
From out the past what voices call,
What visions glad the coming age !

Still hold us faithful to their trust
Who wrought for better things to be,
And when our flesh with theirs is dust,
Grant us with them to rest in thee.

NORTHBOROUGH, MASS.: First Congregational Church ( Unitarian ), June 3, 1896

DEDICATION OF A PARISH-HOUSE

THROUGH willing heart and helping hand,
Behold achieved our long desire !
And gathered here, a household band,
We light to-night the household fire.

Be welcomed here the old, the young,
The rich, the poor, the prince and thrall :
Be Jesus' motto high uphung,—
Who serveth most is chief of all.

Let mirth and pastime speed the hour,
The lighter moods that ease our care :
Here graver themes, through lips of power,
Give guidance to the ways we fare !

May human fellowship here take
A radiance from the altar's glow,
And kindlier hearts, new-quicken'd, make
From purer founts its worship flow !

DEDICATION OF A PARISH-HOUSE 19

O Thou whose service, wide and free,
Is inward strength and light and cheer,—
Be this our bond of unity
And fire the souls that gather here!

BERKELEY, CAL., Sept. 10, 1909

THE NEW-BUILT SHRINE

THE outward temple stands complete,
Fulfilment of our long desire ;
And while our hearts responsive beat
We light anew our altar fire.

Yet neither wholly new nor strange
Can seem this house to which we come ;
So much we bring that knows not change
To give these walls the touch of home :

The inspirations of the past,
The fellowships of kindred aim,
The treasured memories that hold fast,
The vanished whom we silent name.

And now, with forward faith and cheer,
To life made daily more divine,
To all that brings the Vision near,
We dedicate the new-built shrine.

And Thou in whom we live and move,
In whom our being rooted stands,
Breathe in our hearts thy living love
And crown the labor of our hands!

Church of the Unity : ST. LOUIS, 1917

A FOURFOLD JUBILEE

UPLIFTED be the voice of praise
As far and near, beloved Town,
Thy children throng from many ways
Thy fourfold jubilee to crown!

Still echoed in thy history
We catch the high heroic strain,
The Pilgrim faith that crossed the sea
For truth and right and freedom's gain.

And worthy sons of noble sires
Have passed the torch of knowledge on Through paths of peace and battle-fires
Have to the old new triumphs won.

We reap the fields the fathers cleared,
The harvest of their toil and care;
The ampler life by them upreared,
Fulfilment of their faith and prayer.

O Thou by whom our fathers wrought,
Our strength through all the ages down,
Whose Providence thus far hath brought,
Still guard and bless our ancient Town!

FRAMINGHAM, MASS.: Bicentennial, June 13, 1900

A CENTURY OF PEACE

ACROSS a century's border-line
Unmarked by frowning fort or sign,
To-day as one, with differing name,
A kindred heritage we claim :

The heritage of those born free
To shape the onward destiny
Of church and state to nobler plan,
The crowning commonwealth of man.

Blest be the Providence that bore
Our fathers to this New-World shore,
And trained a vigorous stock to be
Upbuilders of democracy.

Their task, committed to our trust,
We steadfast hold and hold we must,
Till all America shall own
The harvest from their planting grown :

Yea, till the ever narrowing tide
No more the continents divide,
And through all lands beneath the sun
The severed nations meet as one!

General Unitarian Conference, MONTREAL,
Sept., 1917; Unveiling of Commemorative Tablet
in the church.

THE NEW-WORLD'S PROPHECY

O BLEST the souls that see and hear
The things of God to-day revealed,
Of old to longing saint and seer
Within the future closely sealed:

The stir of nations near and far,
The wakened hearts that beat as one,
The flow of peace, the ebb of war,
The passing night, the risen sun!

Be ours the vision, ours the will
To follow, though the faithless ban;
The love that triumphs over ill,
The trust in God and hope for man.

And thou whose tides of purpose bear
These mortal lives that come and go,
Give us to feel through toil and prayer
Thy deep eternal underflow!

THE MIRACLE UNBROKEN

Now while the day in trailing splendor
Gives way to glories of the night,
Thanksgiving to thy name we render,
Lord of the darkness and the light!

Daily from thee we have our being,
In all this wondrous order set;
Thine omnipresence blinds our seeing,
And in thy gifts we thee forget.

Touch thou our eyes, their blindness healing,
Until the common earth and air
To our illumined sight and feeling
Thy glory and thyself declare:

Till storied marvel, sign and token,
All pale before the nearer thought
Of the vast miracle unbroken,
Hour unto hour around us wrought.

DAILY BREAD

'THIS day our daily bread,'—
O heart, be satisfied ;
Enough for thee if daily need
Be day by day supplied.

This day our daily bread,—
Be simple wants thy wealth :
The modesty of thy desires
Shall be thy spirit's health.

This day thy daily bread,—
And He who doth provide
The lesser things will surely add
All thou dost need beside.

This day our daily bread,—
So shall the simple prayer
Keep thee in daily thought of him
Who makes thy loaf his care.

EASTER GLADNESS

O DAY of light and gladness,
Of prophecy and song,
What thoughts within us waken,
What hallowed memories throng!
The soul's horizon widens,
Past, present, future blend;
And rises on our vision
The life that hath no end.

Earth feels the season's joyance;
From mountain-range to sea
The tides of life are flowing,
Fresh, manifold and free.
In valley and on upland,
By forest pathways dim,
All Nature lifts in chorus
The resurrection hymn.

O Lord of life eternal,
To thee our hearts upraise
The Easter song of gladness,
The Passover of praise.
Thine are the many mansions,
The dead die not to thee,
Who fillest from thy fullness
Time and eternity.

THE STAR OF BETHLEHEM

NOT over great Jerusalem
    Rested the mystic star of old,
But over little Bethlehem,—
    In holy legend we are told.
The watching shepherds heard with awe
    And felt the brush of unseen wings ;
While from afar the wise men saw
    And joyful came with offerings.

It passed the mighty of the earth,
    The pride of wealth, the pomp of kings,
To mark a prophet's lowly birth
    And shame the scorn of common things.
Nor beat of drum nor bugle cry
    Announced on earth his coming reign,
But ' Glory be to God on high,
    On earth be peace, good will to men !'

Still go before us, mystic star,
    Our dull and blinded eyes to clear;
We follow with the wise men far,
    And with the wondering shepherds hear.
Again the angel hosts draw nigh,
    With them we sing the Christmas strain:
'All glory be to God on high,
    On earth be peace, good will to men!'

Christmas, 1893

MOTHER AND CHILD

AGAIN the angel song we hear,
The guiding star we see;
The mighty of the earth draw near
To helpless infancy.

And ever as the year grows old,
Within the simple lines
Of the familiar story told
A deeper meaning shines.

In every happy mother's face
To-day, the wide world o'er,
There speaks to us a tenderer grace
For Mary's joy of yore :

And every new-born child of earth
A glory doth receive,
Reflected from the Christ-child's birth
On that first Christmas eve.

A WOODLAND CHRISTENING

BENEATH these woodland arches dim
To us made holy ground,
Beside the smooth lake's mirrored rim
By mountains girt around,—

With grateful hearts, O God, to thee
From whom his being came,
This little child we dedicate
And in thy Name would name.

May he each year in knowledge grow,
In wisdom and in grace,—
That inmost blessing ever know
Of those who see thy face.

The bounty of the friendly air,
The joy of laughing rills,
The peace o'erbrooding everywhere,
Strength of the lasting hills,—

The beauty sky and earth between,
The spirit of this hour,
Their love who watch, unseen and seen,
Be his baptismal dower!

For J. B. M. : BIRCHBAY, June 28, 1910

THE CITY OF GOD

'For he looked for the city which hath the foundations, whose builder and maker is God.'

IN thee we meet on kindred ground,
O Pilgrim City by the sea,—
By one high faith and purpose bound,
Pilgrims toward better things to be.

The separating seas are crossed,
Each heart is understood of each;
On this our day of Pentecost
Fade out the lines of race and speech.

One heritage alike we share,
Transcendent, year by year more vast,—
The widening thought and hope and prayer,
The gathered good of all the past.

And one the goal to which we press
By toilsome paths as yet untrod,—
Earth's longed-for reign of righteousness,
The shining City of our God!

International Congress of Religious Liberals:
BOSTON, Sept., 1907

HARVARD DIVINITY SCHOOL

WITHIN these walls what voices break
The silence to the inward ear!
What memories rise and visions wake
Of friendly guides, of prophet, seer:

The forbears of our household name
Whose lives within our own we feel,
Who from the halls of Harvard came
And bore upon their hearts her seal.

Unbound by outgrown rite and creed,
Yet nurtured from a living past,
They dared to trust the Spirit's lead
Nor deemed its latest word the last.

Here be our holiest vows renewed,
Here be reconsecrate our powers;
The love of truth, the prayerful mood
That stayed the fathers still be ours!

Divinity Hall, 1916

EMERSON

No prophet of the wilderness,
Rough-clad and stern of speech, he came ;
None knew him by the outward dress,
And few foresaw the coming fame.

But they who listened to him caught
A music soft as April rain ;
O'er the brown fields of faith and thought
The airs of springtime breathed again.

All ministries that wait on man
His soul receptive learned to know ;
The stream that through his meadow ran
Ran double with a mystic flow.

Along the plain familiar way
Fresh truth from living wells he drew ;
In life, in nature, night and day,
The glory of the One broke through.

No more the living voice is heard,
The pines he loved stand o'er his dust;
The gospel of his life and word
The coming ages hold in trust.

Emerson Centennial: May 25, 1903

ABRAHAM LINCOLN

THE prairies to the mountains call,
The mountains to the sea ;
From shore to shore a nation keeps
Her martyr's memory.

Though lowly born, the seal of God
Was in that rugged face :
Still from the humble Nazareths come
The saviors of the race.

With patient heart and vision clear
He wrought through trying days,—
'Malice toward none, with love for all,'
Unswerved by blame or praise.

And when the morn of Peace broke through
The battle's cloud and din,
He hailed with joy the promised land
He might not enter in.

He seemed as set by God apart,
The winepress trod alone ;
Now stands he forth an uncrowned king,
A people's heart his throne.

Land of our loyal love and hope,
O Land he died to save,
Bow down, renew to-day thy vows
Beside his martyr grave !

Centennial Hymn : February 12, 1909

FORWARD THROUGH THE AGES

FORWARD through the ages,
In unbroken line,
Move the faithful spirits
At the call divine :
Gifts in differing measure,
Hearts of one accord,
Manifold the service,
One the sure reward.
Forward through the ages,
In unbroken line,
Move the faithful spirits
At the call divine.

Wider grows the kingdom,
Reign of love and light ;
For it we must labor,
Till our faith is sight.
Prophets have proclaimed it,
Martyrs testified,
Poets sung its glory,
Heroes for it died.
Refrain : Forward through the ages.

Not alone we conquer,
Not alone we fall;
In each loss or triumph
Lose or triumph all.
Bound by God's far purpose
In one living whole,
Move we on together
To the shining goal!

Refrain: Forward through the ages.

CLOISTERS OF THE SPIRIT

God laid his rocks in courses,
    With greenwood crowned the hill ;
To yoke the ancient forces
    He led the new-born will ;
Man's will he woke to duty,
    He graced the hand that wrought,—
Till in the temple's beauty
    The Soul its Father sought.

To cloisters of the spirit
    These aisles of quiet lead :
Here shall the vision gladden,
    The voice within us plead ;
And may the dear All-Father,
    Who maketh trouble cease,
Here send his three strong angels,
    Contrition, Hope and Peace !

The song these walls shall echo
Be song the heart within,
The prayer in consecration's
Sweet solitudes begin!
Work on, O silent Builder,
Perfect the inner shrine,
Till song pass into service,
Prayer into life divine!

Here be no man a stranger;
No holy cause be banned;
No good for one be counted,
Not good for all the land;
And here for prophet-voices
The message never fail,—
'God reigns! his Truth shall conquer,
And Right and Love prevail!'

ORDINATION

STILL comes the Call to who will hear!
A listening spirit heard,
And fain would go with message clear
To be the living Word.
O holy Voices, bid to-day
All thought of self to cease,—
In God alone his strength and stay,
His gladness and his peace!

Ordain in him the seeker's mind
Of eager, trusting youth,
That hastens forth each morn to find
Fresh manna-falls of truth:
Ordain the constant heart to take
The side of outcast Right,
In duty's rocky fields to make
His gardens of delight.

Give him the eyes that pity men,
The tones that stir and thrill,
The broken heart to heal again,
To brace the faltering will ;
A vision of the Eternal Face,
Where others' sight grows dim :
A prophet truthing it in grace,<sup>1</sup> —
The Christ, ordain in him !

Nor one alone : in all, O God,
For nobler ministry
On heights of life as yet untrod,
Awake the glad ' Send me ! '
Use us for braver words and deeds,
For toil with love ashine,—
Our heart-beat timed to human needs,
Our wills made one with thine !

MOTHER AND CHILD

' God could not be everywhere, so he made Mothers '

WHEN, among all life's miracles, I try
What highest argument may certify
That God is good, however things may seem,
On this I rest, — and evil dims to dream :
Each little Soul that voyages toward birth,
    When it arrives on earth,
    Its first sea-mysteries o'er,
Makes gentle land-fall on a Mother's breast!

This, too, I think : If mother-rapture wait
Each helpless advent on Time's island-
    shore,
Must not Eternity, the continent,
Have harbors all as safe? I ask no more.
It did not know its port, that little Soul, —
    Unsteering found its goal :
    Fear naught, my Soul, sail on,
With orders sealed sail on, to find Life's Best!

KINDERGARTNERS

'The child grew, and waxed strong in spirit, filled with wisdom: and the grace of God was upon him.'

'We are laborers together with God.'

CO-WORKERS we with God! Were he to ask,

'Come, star with me the spaces of my night,
Or fashion forth the crystals of my snow,
Or tone with me to-morrow's sunset light,
Or teach my sweet June roses next to blow,'—

O rare beatitude! But holier task,
Of all his works of beauty fairest-high,
Is that he keeps for hands like ours to ply!
When he upgathers all his elements,
His days, his nights, whole eons of his June,
The Mighty Gardener of the earth and sky,
That to achieve toward which the ages roll,
Creation's blossom, beautiful, intense,
We hear the Voice that sets the spheres a-
tune,—

'Help me, O comrades, flower this little Soul!'

For the Kindergartners' Conference in ROCHESTER, N. Y., 1904

SNOW

WINTER-SILENT is the land,
Winter whiteness everywhere ;
Hid as in a folded hand
Waits a wonder of the air.

Grey and slumber-sealed the skies :
Something mystic broods between,
Ambush of the still surprise,
Unseen glory in the seen.

Suddenly the heavenly ways
People with a starry host,
Moving down, a whirling maze,
To invade the earthly coast.

Hour on hour the crystal shapes
Flash into their perfect form :
From the law not one escapes,
Riot as it may the storm.

Engineries of Nature's grace,
    Soundless, sure, invisible,
What the power, and where the place,
    Of your endless miracle?

Apparitions born to die
    Million millions in a breath,
Is your beauty signalling
    Life as very soul of Death?

Snow-flake, is thy symmetry
    Matter of divine concern,—
Courses of the stars on high
    Hinting nothing more eterne?

If the snow-flake, what the Soul,—
    No concern, its little lot?
In the vastness of the Whole,
    Spirit-star, am I forgot?

Source of Beauty, make me know,
    Where my skies loom grey above,
Lurks thy miracle of Snow,
    Radiant of law and love!

Winter-silent lies my land?
Over-brooding lies the Care!
Fast within a folded Hand
Waits my glory of the air!

APRIL

WHAT'S all the trouble
    Stirring the still?
Grasses are busy
    Greening the hill;
Rootlets are feeling
    Down in the dim;
Brooklets are stealing
    Through the dry limb;
Ferns are uncurling
    Out of the sere;
Woods are awaking,— Anemone's here!
Birds are re-sprinkling
    Song on the air;
Youths and the maidens
    Are going a-pair:
What's all the trouble?

    The Call of the Sun!
    The Lure of the Skies!
Earth's trembling all over
    With atom-replies,—
While Man, the one-word-wise,
    Laughs, 'April!'

A SUMMER IN THE SILENCE OF
THE HILLS

A SUMMER in the silence of the hills !
Green waves of wilderness around us lay,
Billows of sparkling forest, where by day
Cloud-shadows moved and paused and loitered on,
Until the brooding twilight made all shadows one.

Cresting the hill our red-roofed Home
    uprose :
The leafy paths wound in and out the trees
That, nest-like, hid sweet cottage privacies ;
Far down, the leaping streamlet lit the Glen,
And sang an ' Auld lang syne ' to ease the cares of men.

Nor these afar. Along the leagues we spake;
The trains like shuttles knit; into our hand
Daily dropt love and tears from every land;
And God! how clear across our hush the roar
At dawn, at noon, at eve, those guns on China's shore!

---

Our comrades there, Friends of the Quiet
Way
And Simple Life, who greet with pronoun quaint
We world-folk save for prayer or holy saint;
Who listen to their soul on First-day morn
For the still voice of God, and hear the Word fresh-born.

Good grey-heads many; brows of seasoned calm;
Eyes that when young, in our sad history,
Had watched on dim subways of liberty
For dusky fugitives; and feet, not few,
Pickets of peace to-day in friendless causes new.

Dear mother-hearts, life-tried and sorrow-
wise;
Quick, busy men, in weekly ebb and flow;
A charm of bright-faced girls in rosy
blow,
At glancing games with merry-hearted
boys;
With all the little children's blessed, bubbling noise.

---

And he who found the daffodils a-dance,
And gardened them forever in his song,
Was with us everywhere the summer long;

Lover of hermit rills and mountain
moods,
And austere hearts of shepherds in green solitudes,—

The Poet of plain living and high thought :
As in the English lake beside his doors
He saw his hills, so in his verse lay ours.
Threefold our summer spell, threefold
its grace,
A rounding harmony of Poet, People, Place.

A summer in the silence of the hills !
And now a haunted silence in the breast :
There will its shadows glide, its twilights
rest,
The shining of the forest hold its gleam,
And unforgotten faces light some happy dream.

BUCK HILL FALLS, PA., 1904

‘ BREAD — AND ROSES, TOO ’

IN every human heart
A dreaming Jacob lies,
And in the dream the ladders grow
That reach up to the skies.

It was a white-faced waif,
Cold, hunger-thin, astray :
‘ Now what in all the world,’ one cried,
‘ Would you like best to-day ? ’

He thought of body’s plight :
Would it be doughnuts sweet,
Or cakes, or tarts, or cherry-pie ?
Perhaps a candy-treat ?

Two wan eyes starred with light :
‘ O may I really choose ?
I want ’ (in whisper-words it came)
‘ Some — red — morocco — shoes ! ’

The old, old dream divine
Of Beauty, ever new!
The bread we need, — the rose we want ;
The bread, — but roses, too.

And yet shall dawn a day,
The day of dreams come true,
When all, with bread, shall have the rose, —
Bread, and the roses, too!

Meanwhile the gates swing soft,
And down the secret stair,
To comfort mortals on the road,
The angels still repair.

A sermon-catch from E. A. R., 1912

THE HEART OF JUNE

With a copy of 'Aucassin and Nicolette'

A GREENNESS of June, a warble of birds,
A breath of roses a-blow,
And a man and a maid in love, in love,
Six hundred summers ago!

O who would care for the song or rose,
Or who would care for the green,
Had June forgotten to love, to love,
In ever a summer between?

Come, green of the June, and warble of bird,
And breath of roses a-blow,—
But heart of you all are two who love
As two in the long ago!

To Beth and Bert, June 14, 1898

AND STILL THE EYES THAT LIFT

I KNOW it all, — the lift, the light, the peace,
That heavenward drew in eyes of Beatrice.
And not by courteous messenger her grace,—
Herself she came in her own blessed face.
In the Dark Wood of an uncertain will
She found me groping for the Sunlit Hill.
I followed: mine no Dante-path of woe,
Nor terraces where painful pilgrims go.
She came, — the Dark Wood stirred with flower and breeze,
And bird-song trembled in the happy trees!
She came, — and Sunlit Hill, the Eunoe
Fount,
The Earthly Paradise, were mine! Where she
With unreturning feet still comrades me;
And still the eyes that lift, — and still I mount!

On her Fiftieth Birthday, 1904

EARTH'S WAY AND HEAVEN'S WAY

WHAT shall we be in that strange land,
So near and yet so far,
So just beyond a single breath,—
But absolute the bar?

It may be 'I,' it may be 'You,'
It may be closelier one,—
Life within life; and Earth's old way
Seem hardly life begun.

But O so sweet this little while
First to be 'You' and 'I',—
To see, to hear, to touch, — to love,
Earth's way, ere Heaven we try!

ON LOVE'S SUPREME

LOVE-LIGHTED to the end, she may have thought,
As in she passed, 'When was I here before?'
And when the radiant faces, more and more,
With old-home smiles their eager welcome
brought,
Amid the gentle din she must have sought
His voice familiar at some opening door,
Ware of no change, love-folded as of yore,
Nor dreaming what Death's miracle had wrought.

Happy such morrows to love-lighted days!
The Heaven to her as Earth with him had been,—
The Earth to him as Heaven, because, within,
Her memories still vision all his ways.
High on Love's sweet supreme the two confess,
'Death teacheth us the things of Deathless-
ness!'

To Z. P. S. and A. C. S., 1904

The Old Watertown Burying-Ground lies, not in neglect, but in happy disregard, not far above Mount Auburn, on Mount Auburn Street. There are three or four pillar-tomb stones in it, such as our forefathers set over the dust of dignitaries and worthies. On one of these the inscription reads:

IN THE OLD WATERTOWN BURY-ING GROUND

HERE in the shade through all the changing years
She lies, to whom the wilderness gave love ;
Here did they hide her, and their falling tears
Dropped record in the stone they carved above.
From hearts of stern old Puritans these words,
When few and stranger in the land their race,
And grey wolves howled at night around her resting-place.

The few to many grew, the many one,
Till children's children played by farthest seas.

The wars have come and gone. With every sun

Griefs fade like leaves. And still beneath the trees

The love-words cling as lichens to their rock.

Before the Charles its forest murmur ceased

The river-parish mourned this gentle woman-priest.

What was she in her face, her tones,
her smile?

The eyes, wherein the silent song abode
Her linnet heart sang inwardly the while,
Till, at the end outbreaking, their tears flowed?

No echo lingers, no tradition tells:

A village saint, forgot of legend's art,
Unknown Madonna of the Puritanic heart.

Yet moss-grown words hold secrets.
'Good betimes,'—

That hints a charm of early maiden ways;
And 'Best at last,'—the growth in grace,
the chimes

Of woman's powers perfecting with the days.

'She walkt with God': the Someone-with-her felt

Woke sense of holy place in Watertown,
And woodland paths knew quiet above their wonted own.

The cull of verses from the wise old book
Tell her two joys, — the joy of mother's breast

Enfolding little ones; the following look
In husband-eyes that speaks a heart at rest,

The while he praises God at morn and eve
Because she is his very loving wife,
The constant pleasantness of all his days of life.

'The helpmeet of their minister,' it reads :
Angel of their rough homesteads; hands and feet

A gentleness at bed-sides; to slow needs
Of age a comforter; a face that windows greet,

And blessings wait in closets of the heart;

One whom the barefoot children laugh to meet ;
 To whom glad youths and maidens bring their secret sweet.

And on the Lord's Day in the parish-pew, Straight-backed, uncushioned, like the creed's content,
 I see her lips interpreting anew
 In terms of love the preacher's argument ;
 Her eyes reflect the fervors of his prayer.
 Full oft her heart to heaven had sung its way
 Before the angel-voices bade, ' Come in and stay ! '

She ' went off singing ' — and ' left us to wepe ' :
 The love-words lie dim-lettered in the stone,
 Still in the shadows here remembrance
 keep.
 Across two hundred Junes the song, the moan ;
 Two hundred snows of silence on them sleep.

---

With battle-thoughts forlorn, one day I strolled,
To find, and love again, the parish-saint of old.

‘GROW OLD ALONG WITH ME’

AGE makes confession, if it urge
That grey of head is boyhood's brown :
Is ebbing wave the shoreward surge ?
Does Autumn wear an April gown ?

Although at morn and even play
The mysteries of twilight dim,
It is an empty word to say
The evening is the morning hymn.

But nothing is it less divine,
With all the holy night in fee :
The Morning, and one world was mine ;
The Night,— a heaven of worlds I see !

O joy for what the years teach well,
The trust that this one world we know —
How bright, how dear, no song can tell —
Of those is only embryo !

For a Seventieth Birthday, 1907

SUNSET

SWEET hill-top sessions wait you yet,
Watch-hours before your own sunset,
Life's clouds to quiet glory made,
And twilight folding shade on shade.

Then song of the Hidden Thrush,—

Far-widening hush,—

And silence, — and the stars !

ABRAHAM LINCOLN, FOREVER

Tune, 'Marching through Georgia'

BORN in a log-cabin, and he had a spelling-book,—

That was all the outfit that the little Abram took :

King of Hearts it made him! When he died, the country shook,—

Abraham Lincoln, forever!

Hurrah! hurrah! he brought the Jubilee!

Hurrah! hurrah! the man who made us free!

Men shall sing his praises from the mountains to the sea,

Abraham Lincoln, forever!

Dark along the North there hung the thunder-clouds of war,

Brightly gleamed the watch-fires on the Southern hills and shore,

When uprose the gaunt-face hero, sound-heart to the core,—

Abraham Lincoln, forever!

Black men for their freedom trembling,
white men for their land,
Watched the patient eyes that feared not,
felt the steady hand,
Knew that somehow God was with him,—
Liberty would stand!
Abraham Lincoln, forever!

Heart without a nook for malice, only room
for grace,
All his will to pluck the thistle, plant the flower in place,—
And he lived to save a nation, died to save a race,
Abraham Lincoln, forever!

O MOTHER NIGH-FORGOTTEN

'God bless my mother! All that I am, or ever hope to be, I owe to her.' Abraham Lincoln.

O MOTHER nigh-forgotten,
To-day, amid our joy,
A thankful land remembers
The Mother of the Boy!

Empires had aged and vanished;
The centuries unrolled;
A New World rose from shadow
New cycles to unfold.

Again the heavens yearned downward;
Again, in winter wild,
The self-same stars were watching
A Mother and a Child;

Again the manger-cradle,
The oxen standing by,
The humble folk low bending
To catch a baby's cry.

O little knew that Mother,
Madonna of the West,
How Fate and Fame were watching
The child upon her breast!

No angel-vision showed her
The spirit's growth in grace,
The wisdom and the stature,
The patience in the face.

She heard no song of captives
In rapture of release;
No praising world acclaim him
God's Messenger of Peace;

Nor saw, across the Aprils,
The form upon the rood,
And a great nation shaken
With grief and gratitude.

The boy her heart had prayed for,
And loved so mother-well,—
No dream foretold him Savior,
A land's Emmanuel.

Now, Woman of the birth-pangs,
Mother, who never knew,
With battle-scars outfaded,
Our faces turn to you!

The four winds all are throbbing
A chime of birthday bells;
Through North and South commingled
One surge of gladness swells.

O Mother nigh-forgotten,
To-day, amid our joy,
A land all thanks remembers
The Mother of the Boy!

THE CHRIST OF THE ANDES

'How beautiful upon the mountains are the feet of him that bringeth good tidings, that publisheth peace; that bringeth good tidings of good, that publisheth salvation; that saith unto Zion, Thy God reigneth!'

WHAT gleams so bright on the mountain-top
In the rise and set of the sun?
What rapture of song do the rivers shout,
As down through the hills they run?

The Beautiful Feet have come, have come,
Of him who publisheth Peace!
Who saith to the lands, The Good God reigns,
And the hells of War shall cease!

The angel-song in the skies of old
At last is echoed of men:
The Beautiful Feet have come, have come,—
O never to go again!

Why linger there on the mountain-tops?
Come down to the plain, the shore,
To the noisy mart, to the plotting kings,
And travel the wide earth o'er.

Come into our hearts, O Beautiful Feet,
And man from his hate release!
The world is weary; it listens, it longs
For the foot-fall bringing Peace.

Christmas, 1904

In 1900, the sister Republics, Argentina and Chile, were on the brink of war. It was an old dispute about boundary-lines. Good Bishop Benevente of Argentina appealed to his countrymen to settle the dispute by arbitration instead of war. King Edward of England was asked to be arbitrator, and the two nations quietly acquiesced in his decision. To signalize and perpetuate this victory of Peace, a colossal statue of Christ was dedicated, March 13, 1904. One hand holding his cross of sacrifice, the other uplifted to heaven, the CHRIST OF THE ANDES stands on the boundary-line, fourteen thousand feet above the sea, blessing both countries as they lie below in peace.

JOY OF MORNING

'Weeping may tarry for a night, but Joy cometh in the morning.'

Joy of morning in the skies,
Laughter of the glad sunrise,
Waking all the lands anew
In the sparkle of the dew !

Joy of morning in the slow
Upward climb of life aglow,—
Rock to flower, and brute to face,
Dawn in man of angel grace !

Joy of morning in the soul,
Lighting it from goal to goal,
Ever in wild hearts of youth
Visioning a larger truth !

Joy of morning's break of song
After starless nights of wrong,
Gladdening history's tragic way,
Prelude of a happier day !

Hate and hurt the dark may fill,
Light shall be the victor still.
Freshening Spirit, living Breath,
Rend once more the clouds of death!

Bring with thee an earth made new,
Peace its sunrise, love its dew!
Lo, the Day-spring from on high,
God's great morning in the sky!

AMERICA AT THE PEACE
CONGRESS: 1899

During her Conquest of the Philippines

WHY is she late at the Tryst of the Peacemakers ?

Where is the youngest and fairest of all,
Last-born of Liberty, darling of Destiny,
Star of the stricken and hope of the thrall ?

Russia is here from her plains and her river-
gates,
England has come from her isles of the sea,
Italy hastens aleap o'er the hill-tops,
Germany, France, — they forget and agree.

Why lags America ? Still at her chivalry,
Saving some little one pressed by the foe ?
Spending her treasure and sharing her privilege,
Loosing the captive of hunger and woe ?

---

Lo, she comes radiant! Lo, she comes beautiful!

Welcome and praise for her, hail to her deed!

Place for the selfless one, room for the rescuer,
'Rights of the People' her banner and creed!

Red is her robe, — she is Land of the Afterglow;

Red-lit her cheek, — it is heart-glow her own.

Red on her hands! Is it blood? Dares
America

Mock the White Muster, red-handed alone?

All of the others are doffing war's garniture, Swordless and stainless and minded for
peace;

She alone alien, unwashed of her battle-smoke,—

Sea-winds pursuing her, shrieking 'Release!'

---

Crownless she sits there, unstarred of her radiancy,
Blood on her hands and greed in her heart; —
Blood of young patriots lavished for liberty,
Greed of the conqueror, wile of the mart.

This, for the splendor with which she faced Godward!

This, for the vision that heavened her eyes!
Bulk of the body for soul-growth imperial,—
O the mad barter of sin and surprise!

How can she sing of it, 'Sweet land of Liberty,'

She with her clarion used for its ban?
Hushed be the song till the silence re-teaches her
Faith that makes faithful to God and to Man!

Have not the fathers pledged her to right-ousness ?

Died not the sons to redeem from eclipse ?

Vision shall star once again the sweet brows
of her,

Song be re-born on the beautiful lips !

AMERICA REDEMPTA: 1917-1918

During the Great War for Liberty

WAS it for nothing, that Tryst of the Peacemakers?

Winters and summers have fled not a score,—

All the earth rocks with the thunders of battle,

All the world aches in the anguish of war.

Into the circle of horror she moveth,

Radiant, beautiful: 'Here is my all!

Take me repentant! The Rights of the People

Henceforth forever my pledge and my call!'

Hear her, O fathers, who gave her to righteousness,

Hear her, O sons, who redeemed from eclipse!

Vision is starring again the sweet brows of her,

Song is reborn on the beautiful lips!

Not for a nothing! Through home-break and heart-break

Flooding as never the Dream surges now,—

'Peace on the earth,' the resolve of the nations:

Souls of dead heroes are shrining the vow.

Peace born of battle! Through war to forgiveness!

Strange is the lessoning, ache of it long.
Hearts taught communion by hands that are crimson,

Crimsoned with blood of the brother gone
wrong?

Yea, if it must be! The peoples lie gasping,
Caught in the clutch of his frenzy to rule;
War stalks incarnate wherever he rages;
Liberty perishes, feast of a ghoul.

God of the Must-Be, keep thou the heart,
then!

Used as thy angel of smiting, we ask.
'Angel,'—not dragon: O Heart of America,
Angel thyself for the awe of thy task!

Thou and thy comrades ! No dragon within us

Serves the High God to slay dragons without :

Only Saint Michael receives the commission,
Only Saint George shall the victory shout.

Nothing for self, but solely to liberate !

Battle, but only that battle may cease !

Victor, to make the earth safe for democracy,

Widen man's brotherhood, stablish his peace !

Humbly, forgivingly, then shall the nations

Seek them together a Sinai untrod,

Hear the New Law in a Tryst of the Peace-makers,

Frame a New World for the peoples of God !

BEFORE THE EXPOSITION

'St. Louis is getting ready for its Exposition. But it is only April. All over the Exposition Grounds are most tempting suggestions of beauty to come: headless horses, human torsos awaiting the arms and legs that are in the shop, wings ready for bodies not yet arrived, and figures ready to be grouped.' — J. L. J., in 'Unity,' April, 1904.

HEADLESS horses, human torsos,
Waiting arms and legs-to-be,
Wings detached, and groups dissevered,—
Chaos, welter, anarchy!
Yet each shard a shred of beauty,
Yet each curve a sweep of grace,
Wings that hint the coming angel,
Arms that prophesy the face.

In a way and at a moment
Known, predestined, all shall meet,
Mated, wedded, in the glory
Of the Master's thought complete;
Every limb achieve its gesture,
Every torso find its whole,
Every cluster act its drama
In some rapture of the Soul.

As I look, the vision widens,
Vanishes the city fair,
Round me History's vast horizons
Strewn with wreckage and despair;
Here the limb and there the torso,
Severed wings and hands and feet:
Ruin? Nay, but coming glory,
Glory of the Man Complete!

Man the Gardener — Man the Builder —
Man the Singer of the song —
Man the Thinker — Man the Brother —
Man the Righter of the wrong!
Onward, upward, through the ages
Shaping Nature to its plan,
Lo, the cosmic thought emerges,—
Lo, the Son of God in Man!

1918

THOUGH the Christmas bells are muffled,
And the carols will not sing,
Still to faith the vision widens,
And the torsos challenge fling:
Slow the cosmic thought emerges,
Long the agonies of birth,
But the Master's purpose holdeth,—
Peace, Good-Will, the Christ on Earth!
